TWO DENY STEEL IS LACKING FOR HIGGINS PLANT

House Member Says Evidence Shows Metal Supply Adequate

OTHER INDUSTRIES GIVEN 'EXCESSIVE QUANTITIES'

Some Factories Get Six Months' Supply Instead Of Only Two

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Two members of a house investigating committee said today they had received evidence contradicting the contention of the maritime commission that a steel shortage made it advisable to cancel the contract of the Andrew J. Higgins company of New Orleans for the construction of a shipyard and 200 new vessels.

"The evidence tends to establish the fact that at the time of the cancellation of the Higgins contract there was and there had been sufficient steel for the construction of the entire shipbuilding program," they said.

They were Representatives Boykin, Democrat, Alabama, and Culkin, Republican, New York. Their findings, they said, were concurred in by two other members of their house merchant marine subcommittee, Representatives Welch, Republican, California, and Jackson, Democrat, Washington. The report was issued after receiving lengthy testimony by Dr. Mordecai Ezekial, economist of the war production board.

Earlier in the day, Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission, told the committee flatly that "absolutely no outside influence" affected the commission's decision to cancel the Higgins contract, and reiterated that a lack of steel was the cause.

His statement was in reply to testimony yesterday by L. E. Detweiler, assistant to the president of the Higgins company, that high government officials who still retain peacetime connections with steel and shipbuilding corporations "influenced" the cancellation.

The Boykin-Culkin report attributed the reported steel shortage to

OLD VETS TOLD PENSIONS SAFE

Confederates And Widows Assured No Decrease Will Be Made

BATON ROUGE, La., July 25.—(AP)—Confederate veterans and widows were advised today by Governor Sam Jones and Welfare Director W. S. Terry, Jr., that their pension payments would not be decreased.

Letters were written to the pensioners by the state officials after innumerable inquiries were received asking about the status of the pension fund.

"Pay no attention to any stories about not getting your pension," Governor Jones advised the pensioners. "Pay no attention to any lawyers wanting you to pay a fee to see that you continue getting your pension. If anybody tries to keep you from getting your pension I'll be your lawyer and I won't charge you anything for my services."

Terry also advised the widows and veterans that rumors of a decrease in the pension payments were absolutely unfounded.

"I have been assured by State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell that no action on the part of the legislature of 1942 has in any way jeopardized the payment of Confederate pensions. Money will be retained in the Confederate pension fund to pay all pensioners at the rate of $60 a month at the time these amounts fall due," Terry said.

The legislature passed an act pledging the surplus of the Confederate veterans' fund to secure highway bonds.

MALONEY RESIGNS FROM REVENUE JOB

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 25.—(AP)—Paul H. Maloney announced today that he had resigned as United States collector of internal revenue here to become a candidate for representative in congress from the Second Louisiana district, a post he held for a decade.

Maloney was defeated two years ago by T. Hale Boggs, who was endorsed by both the state administration and the New Orleans Old Regulars. The Old Regulars have not endorsed candidates in the coming congressional primary but some observers believed Maloney would get the nod.

Besides Maloney and Boggs two other candidates are in the race. They are Lavinus L. Williams and Paul E. Bonta.

Russia's Plight Is Much More Serious Than One Year Ago

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

Another July fateful with grim portents for Russia is passing into history with little yet to indicate that Anglo-American might can be thrown into the battle scales in time to avert a disaster in southern Russia for the Allied cause.

Compared with her situation just a year ago, when it seemed gloomy enough, Russia's plight is incalculably more serious. She is all but cut apart from the Baltic to the Caspian by Nazi hordes pouring southeastward down the Don valley.

Not only is her vast Ukrainian breadbasket in enemy hands, but her treasure-trove of oil in the Caucasus and the armies that defend it are in terrible jeopardy of being cut off. Her enemy now stands virtually upon the Don from close to its source below Moscow to its mouth below Rostov. Even eastward in Siberia she is now menaced by the Japanese, flushed with victories in China, the Philippines, Malaya, the Dutch Indies.

Yet harking back to those dark days in Russia in July, 1941, the essential fact is that she has endured through disaster upon disaster for twelve-month as few British and American military authorities then believed she could. Even now, and at the worst,

U. S. SUBS SINK FIVE JAP SHIPS

Another Damaged In Enemy-Dominated Waters Of Western Pacific

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—American submarines recently sank a large new Japanese destroyer and four other ships in enemy-dominated waters of the western Pacific, the navy announced today, adding that a sixth vessel was damaged and probably sank.

The destroyer was hit by two torpedoes and went down in nine minutes. Shortly before it sank the submarine poked its periscope above the ocean surface less than a quarter of a mile away and made the first combat picture ever taken in the United States navy from under the sea.

The photograph showed the destroyer heeled far over to port and down by the stern. The Rising Sun insignia painted on its forward turret for identification by airplanes was plainly visible and two men in white could be seen apparently scrambling off the ship.

Lieutenant-Commander John Long, navy photographic chief, said that the picture through the periscope was made with a special secret camera now being supplied to all large United States submarines by the bureau of aeronautics which developed it.

The accounting of undersea operations in the western Pacific, first issued here since May 28, was given in navy department communique number 100 which listed the damage inflicted of the enemy as:

Sunk—One modern destroyer, one medium sized tanker, three cargo ships.

Damaged and believed sunk—one medium sized cargo ship.

No details of the actions were given in the communique but the additional information about the successful attack on the destroyer was made available in the official description of the picture taken from the submarine.

OFFICER KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES

ORLANDO, Fla., July 25.—(AP)—Second Lieutenant Delos J. Leavenworth, 25, of Carleton, Mich., stationed at the Orlando fighter command school base, was instantly killed today when his pursuit plane crashed into Lake Dorr northeast of Umatilla. He was on a training flight.

Captain John D. Fleming, base public relations officer, said a special board had been detailed to investigate the crash.

Leavenworth was graduated from Michigan State Normal college and taught school two years at Ferndale, Mich. He was commissioned last May 20 upon his graduation from Foster Field, Tex. Survivors include his widow and his father, Elias W. Leavenworth of Carleton.

AUGUST QUOTA OF BICYCLES IS GIVEN

DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—(AP)—An August quota of 8,346 bicycles for rationing in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas was announced today by the region OPA offices. Reserves for the six states total 3,024.

The quota and reserve, respectively, for each state includes: Arkansas, 403 and 144; Louisiana, 842 and 306; Oklahoma 1,016 and 372; and Texas, 2,968 and 1,086.

GEORGE THINKS SENATE TO SEEK NEW TAX LEVIES

Believes Rates Fixed By House Measure Will Not Be Increased

MAY CONSIDER SALES TAX OR DIRECT PAY DEDUCTION

Finance Committee Chairman Admits Both Are Controversial

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, predicted today that the senate finance committee would reject treasury proposals to increase individual and corporation income rates in the house-approved $6,271,000,000 revenue bill, but would explore possible new fields of taxation.

George told reporters that while he believed a majority of the committee would like to attain the treasury's goal of an $8,700,000,000 net increase in taxes, he felt certain that members would be willing to go that high only if they could agree on some form of levy not now in the pending bill.

"I am of the opinion," he said, "that the committee will not fix any definite goal but will be disposed to raise additional revenue above that provided by the house bill if sources are found other than those heretofore suggested by the treasury which will yield a substantial portion of the increase."

The committee chairman said such a viewpoint obviously would bring about a discussion of a sales tax or the possible conversion of a house-approved payroll deduction into a direct tax instead of merely an advance payment on regular income tax liabilities.

Remarking that both of these matters must be classed as extremely controversial, he said he was not at all sure the committee would agree on any form of new tax. He intimated such a disagreement might well result in failure by the committee to recommend any substantial revenue increases in the measure.

In an appearance before the committee last Thursday, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau asked for in-

LOITERING NEAR DOCKS UNLAWFUL

Smoking And Carrying Packages Or Cameras Also Prohibited

NEW ORLEANS, July 25.—(AP)—Smoking, carrying packages or cameras or just simple loitering near docks and boats along banks of navigable Louisiana waters is prohibited by a law enforceable by civil authorities, eighth naval district coast guard officials here said today.

Adopted by the legislature at the request of the coast guard for aid in preventing sabotage, house bill No. 576 is a war measure—in effect until six months after the duration of the current conflict. It was signed by the governor in the presence of Captain J. F. Farley, district coast guard officer and Lieutenant Commander G. W. McKean, captain of the port of New Orleans.

Only areas exempted from the act are those within the limits of the port of New Orleans, under the jurisdiction of the board of port commissioners.

In general, the bill makes it unlawful for any person to go upon any "bulkhead, dock, pier, wharf, landing, warehouse or shed," or approaches within 200 feet thereto, or on board

Suit Is Filed To Invalidate Veto Of Hospital Fund

Action Also Is Sought To Force Payment Of Appropriation

BATON ROUGE, La., July 25.—(AP)—A suit seeking to invalidate Governor Sam Jones' veto of the biennial appropriation for the New Orleans charity hospital was filed here today in district court by Alfred D. Danziger, New Orleans attorney.

A preliminary hearing on the suit was set for 10 a.m. Friday by District Judge James D. Womack.

The petition, filed by Danziger's attorneys Leander Perez, district attorney of Plaquemines parish, and George M. Wallace and Wade O. Martin, Jr., of Baton Rouge, also seeks:

1. To force state financial officials to pay the appropriation made by the legislature to the hospital.

2. To prohibit the governor from taking further steps in closing the hospital by discharging patients or dismissing staff members.

3. To prohibit financial officials from using proceeds out of the corporation franchise tax and the state

AMERICANS RAID TOBRUK, BENGASI

U. S. Army Bomber Crews Fly Regular Schedule Of Destruction

CAIRO, July 25.—(AP)—Flying a regular schedule of destruction, American army bomber crews heavily damaged Axis ports and shipping at Tobruk and Bengasi in Libya and Crete's Suda Bay on seven missions in the last week, the United States air forces command for the Middle East announced officially today.

Observations indicated great damage was inflicted on dock installations, said the communique from the headquarters of Major General Lewis H. Brereton.

"Several medium-sized merchant vessels were left in flames. At Bengasi one large ship was set afire as a result of a direct hit."

Brereton's command in the Middle East was announced only a week ago in a communique which told of 21 successful tactical missions carried out up to last Saturday by American airmen flying their own planes over the desert and far out across the Mediterranean.

It had been hinted in midweek that American Liberators were among the bombers striking at Axis bases on Crete, but the formal announcement of the American participation was made only today.

(Importance of the American aerial cooperation with the British was underscored in the informed military opinion expressed in London to the effect that although the British retain the initiative in the desert fighting the arrival of a single Axis convoy might swing the balance of military power to Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies.)

In the aerial fighting closer to the immediate battlefront, the R. A. F. reported its newest blow at the close-up airfield at El Daba resulted in damage or destruction to more than 20 Axis planes on the ground and three in the air yesterday.

This would bring to more than 80 the number of Axis planes put out of action by actual count in mass raids in several days in addition to uncounted others referred to as "several" and "many" in some cases.

The R. A. F. yesterday carried out customary cooperative attacks with land forces and struck at shipping in the Mediterranean as well.

During Thursday night, it became

AMERICANS TAKE TORTURE BRAVELY

One Apologizes For Fainting When Given 'Water Cure' By Japs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Relman Morin was at Saigon, French Indo-China, when war broke out between Japan and the United States. Chief of the Associated Press bureau at Tokyo from 1937 until November, 1940, he had been on a roving assignment for the Associated Press in East Asia during the year before the war. Morin, 34, a native of Freeport, Ill., traveled extensively in East Asia after his graduation from Pomona college in 1929 and worked on the Shanghai Evening Post. He joined the Associated Press at Los Angeles and for some time wrote a Hollywood column. Interned at the outbreak of war between Japan and the United States, he has now been exchanged along with other Americans, for repatriated Japanese and here tells some of the experiences of the group.)

By Relman Morin

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 23.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Americans can take it.

There is the case of Edwin Koons, Presbyterian missionary who was imprisoned by the Japanese in Korea where, he said, he received the "water cure" when other less elaborate methods of punishment failed to make him agree he had been engaged in espionage.

He is here now where he has been exchanged along with other Americans for Japanese repatriated from the United States.

The water cure simply is a method of forcing quantities of water down the throat of the victim until he is unconscious and in a semi-drowning condition.

Koons said, "They tried it once and I fainted."

Somewhat apologetically he explained he had a chronic heart condition.

"A few days later, beating my back and soles of my feet with rubber hose, they said I needed more water, but at the last minute they decided otherwise."

"Well, sir," said Koons, "just to show them I wasn't scared I said I really was thirsty after so much talking and asked for a small drink."

He said he had the satisfaction of overhearing his tormentors remark that was the first time anybody ever actually asked for a drink in that chamber.

He said he did not blame his inquisitors personally, as he believed they carried out orders from above and that he hoped to return to his mission field some day.

The American propensity for wisecracking over personal ordeals and disasters was a noticeable feature of life aboard the Asmara Maru, which with the Italian liner Conte Verde, was used as an exchange ship in the repatriation of United States and Canadian citizens.

A portly business executive who lost seventy pounds and nearly died of malnutrition in Hongkong smiled ruefully and observed:

"The part I really mind is the necessity of buying a whole new wardrobe."

After experiences like this man's and those the others endured, the passengers took shipboard life in their stride and laughed at having to launder their own clothes, sleep on deck, and line up at 6 a.m. for a few cups of water.

Ranking diplomats, business men and mission leaders voluntarily took steerage bunks, giving women and children the upper deck privileges.

Those with cabin facilities made an afternoon social function out of the bath hour, inviting as many guests as possible daily.

WAR PRODUCTION ALMOST TRIPLED IN SIX MONTHS

Donald M. Nelson Warns People Against 'Undue Optimism'

DEMOCRACY'S ARSENAL IS DOING SATISFACTORY JOB

Serious Raw Material Shortages, However, Reported Impending

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson told the nation today that this country's June output of planes, tanks, ships, guns, ammunition and all campaign equipment was almost triple production of last November—but he admonished against "undue optimism."

In the first six months of this year, Nelson said in a communique from the production front, the volume of such war munitions turned out was one-and-one-half times as large as production during all of 1941.

While Nelson reported that in general, the arsenal of democracy was doing a good job, he asserted that serious raw materials shortages were impending, new bottlenecks forming, and "too much boasting is altogether premature."

"It is hard to report progress without appearing optimistic," the war production board chairman said in a preface to his report, "but I want to emphasize again and again that the picture is in no sense one that provides a basis for undue optimism."

Other highlights of the communique:

1. Production of aircraft in the first six months of 1942 exceeded total 1941 output.

2. Merchant ship tonnage delivered in the first six months of this year was 133 per cent greater than during all of last year. Although total deliveries for the first six months of 1942 were not up to expectations, May and June deliveries were ahead of schedule. Future deliveries will depend upon availability of steel plate, engines and shipways.

3. The number of anti-aircraft guns produced in the first six months was about three-and-one-half times as large as total production in 1941, but

NINE HONORED IN SUB SINKING

Letters Of Commendation Are Presented In Formal Review

FORT MYERS, Fla., July 25.—(AP)—Nine members of the crew of a B-24 bomber operating off the Fort Myers army air base as part of the 93rd bombardment group received official credit and letters of commendation today for sinking a German submarine June 21 in the Gulf of Mexico, said Major George B. Woods, group intelligence officer.

The letters of commendation were presented in a formal review by Colonel E. J. "Ted" Timberlake after the sinking of the Axis undersea raider off the coast of Yucatan.

The officers and members of the crew of the big bomber which took off from here as a training group, "over and above line of duty to patrol gulf waters," and succeeded in sinking the enemy submarine at an unannounced spot off the coast of Yucatan were:

First Lieutenant B. F. Williams, pilot, Fort Worth, Texas; First Lieutenant E. C. Kent, Kansas City, Mo.; Second Lieutenant R. H. Schoenberger, navigator, Miamisburg, Ohio; Second

F. B. I. Thinks Three Saboteurs May Be In U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—The possibility that three Nazis trained in the science of sabotage may be at large in the United States led the Federal Bureau of Investigation to broadcast a general request today for officers and the public to be on the lookout for them.

The FBI began distribution of hundreds of thousands of "wanted" circulars bearing the pictures and descriptions of the men, two of whom lived in this country for years.

J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, did not say the men were in this country. He merely announced that all three had "received extensive training in the methods of committing sabotage and have received orders from the German high command to come to the United States to destroy vital war industries."

It was learned reliably that the FBI believes the men are not here. But since it cannot be absolutely certain, the warning was broadcast and the job started of blanketing of the nation with their pictures and descriptions.

The latest information showed them still to be in Europe, it was learned. One of them was at the German submarine base at Lorient, France, the FBI said, at the time the eight alleged Nazi saboteurs now on trial for their lives before a military commission left aboard two submarines which landed them on Long Island and Florida coasts.

The men named by Hoover were:

Walter Kappe, alias Walter Kappel, 37, a lieutenant in the German army

O'DANIEL AHEAD IN TEXAS RACE

Runoff With Former Governor James V. Allred Appears Likely

DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—(AP)—Senator W. Lee (Pass the Biscuits Pappy) O'Daniel, who used hill billy music to become one of the most popular figures in Texas politics, appeared on the way to his fourth big election victory tonight.

O'Daniel, twice voted governor before he was elected to finish the unexpired term of the late Senator Morris Sheppard, took a lead of almost 9,000 votes over James V. Allred, also a former governor, in the Texas election bureau's 10 p.m., central war time, tabulation of the race for the Democratic senatorial nomination—equivalent to election in Texas.

Returns from 89 of 254 counties gave O'Daniel 54,312, Allred 45,445.

Fiery Dan Moody, another ex-governor who gained fame in Texas politics by starting the downfall of James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson, was running third with 23,774 votes, showing enough strength to make a run-off election possible.

A majority is essential to the nomination, which in Texas amounts to election.

Governor Coke Stevenson continued to build up his lead in the gubernatorial contest, leading Hal H. Collins 27,149 to 8,198. Collins, a business man taking his first fling at politics, campaigned with two comedians and a guitar and fiddle band from the same platform with O'Daniel.

Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission, Texas' oil regulatory body, also held a substantial lead over two opponents, and in the 11-man race to succeed Jerry Sadler, who resigned to enter the army, Pierce Brooks of Dallas and Beauford Jester of Corsicana led the field.

In the congressional races, Representative Charles S. South of Coleman, charged by opponents in his West Texas district with pre-Pearl Harbor votes against defense measures, was trailing in his race for reelection. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, district attorney had 984 votes to South's 903. Harry Knox, member of the Texas board of control had 351.

AIR INSTRUCTOR KILLED IN CRASH

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., July 25.—(AP)—First Lieutenant Milton L. Chesbro, 26, United States Marine Corps Reserve, of Spokane, Wash., an instructor at the naval air station here, was killed when his plane was forced down near Laredo, Tex., yesterday, navy authorities announced today.

His mechanic, Robert W. Willingham, aviator machinist, third class, was seriously injured. Willingham is from Warrington, Fla.

Lieutenant Chesbro was leading a routine country flight of war planes piloted by aviation cadets when he had to make a forced landing in a field 20 miles north of Agua Laurie, east of Laredo, naval authorities said. Four other planes were landed without injury to the occupants.

Willingham was reported improving this afternoon. He is the son of Sergeant and Mrs. William R. Willingham of Warrington, Fla.

Chesbro is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Degan Chesbro, formerly of Tampa, Fla., now of Corpus Christi, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Chesbro of Spokane.

RUSSIANS EXACT HEAVY TOLL AS THEY FALL BACK

Invaders Believed Possibly Within 45 Miles Of Stalingrad

BENES ASSERTS MUD WILL HALT FOE IN FEW WEEKS

Thinks Russians Will Hold But Wants Second Front To Aid Them

MOSCOW, Sunday, July 26.—(AP)—German troops augmented by a steady flow of reserves to take the place of fallen thousands have smashed their way into the outskirts of Rostov, the Russians acknowledged early today.

Heavy fighting rolled all along the lower Don river to Tsimlyansk, 120 miles to the east, where the Nazis were reported also suffering enormous losses in constant attempts to penetrate Soviet defenses on the south bank of the river.

"The Germans have succeeded in reaching the outskirts of the town (Rostov)," the midnight communique said. "The Germans are being forced to throw in reserves in heavy fighting which continues in the Rostov area."

The Russians said their troops still were pushing the Germans back in the Voronezh area far to the north on the upper Don "in spite of continuous counter-attacks."

Soviet troops also were still locked with the Germans in the Novocherkassk area, 20 miles northeast of Rostov and north of the Don river, the communique said. (The Germans claimed the capture of Novocherkassk.)

Two Nazi transports totalling 16,000 tons were announced sunk in the Gulf of Finland.

American bombers flown by Russian pilots were engaged heavily in the defense of the lower Don where a German drive not only threatens the Caucasus but Stalingrad on the Volga river, a vital communications link between southern and central Russia.

The steel and concrete Rostov forts which have been strengthening for eight months were pierced at points on the north side of the Don, but the Russians were said to have slowed the tempo of the powerful German onslaught.

Frontline dispatches said the battle—obviously one of the bloodiest ever—was extremely strenuous, with the Germans employing vast tank forces and swarms of planes based on swiftly built airdromes near the front.

Once again American bombers were in the thick of battle, flying with Russian planes to pound German tanks and motorized columns seeking to engulf the southern Don steppes, cut the Red army in two and seal off the Caucasus for winter campaigning. Russian pilots were believed flying these swift and deadly Douglas planes, which Europeans call Bostons.

"Heavy battles are still in progress against enemy tanks and motorized infantry superior in number," the Russian command said grimly of the Rostov fighting. "On one sector the Germans succeeded in driving into positions occupied by our troops."

Hand-to-hand fighting developed frequently and the Russian communique listed 2,000 Germans killed by the bayonets and sidearms. A vast area of carnage was pictured with thousands of German bodies and machines lying on the ground in mute testimony of the Russian resolve to save the great Don delta port.

The sector of the middle Don reached by the million-man army of Marshal Fedor von Bock was not specified, but one section of the river

Roosevelt, Farley Foes In Political Fight

Two On Opposite Sides In New York's Race For Governor

NEW YORK, July 25.—(Wide World)—Franklin D. Roosevelt and James A. Farley, the suave, beaming, operator-extraordinary who had so much to do with electing him president, are squared away in a hot political fight in New York state.

Their first breach was over the president's run for a third term, and the disagreement resulted in Farley's retirement from the postmaster-generalship and the national Democratic chairmanship.

Now, the breach is over who shall be the next governor of New York—a possibly important factor in the presidential election in 1944—and at stake is Farley's influence as state Democratic chairman.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman, of the Wall street private banking family, ran for his current third term only reluctantly, as a favor to Democratic party leaders, and now is determined to give up the job.

The likely Republican candidate to succeed him is Thomas E. Dewey, the youthful son of Owosso, Mich., who gained a national reputation as a racket-busting prosecutor and district attorney, and who vainly ran against Lehman in the last gubernatorial election and vainly campaigned for the last Republican presidential nomination.

To run against him, Farley selected John J. Bennett, Jr., the state's attorney general for the last dozen years, an unspectacular but affable and assiduous party worker who long had been in grooming for such a contingency.

Bennett has been handshaking up and down the state for years—reputedly acquiring a roster of acquaintances and first-names second only to that of the fabulous Farley himself—and claims 646 of the state convention's 1,014 votes pledged.

However, the American Labor party, which has delivered winning blocks of votes to Democratic candidates in the past, announced that Bennett was not satisfactory to it for a joint slate and that if he were nominated, it would put up its own opposing candidates. The party indicated, however, that if Senator James Mead, who has a more conspicious pro-labor record than Bennett, were the Democratic candidate the Labor party would support him.

Whereupon, apparently stemming from a nod from President Roosevelt, a pro-Mead "beat Bennett" movement crystalized overnight among nationally known New Dealers like Senator Robert Wagner, Henry Morgenthau, Sr., father of the secretary of the treasury, and Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Berle, Jr.—erstwhile teammates of Farley now set in defiance of him.

The drive got the blessing of the White House Wednesday when Mead, after a conference with President Roosevelt, relayed this statement from him:

Former Backing Mead While Latter Gives Support To Bennett

"I am a voter in New York state, but I am not a delegate to the convention. If I were a delegate to the convention, I would cast my vote for Jim Mead."

Whereupon Farley issued a blast at the Mead campaign, denouncing Mead as a man by his own admission unqualified for the governorship and accusing him of political double-dealing, campaigning behind the scenes while representing that he was not interested in the nomiination. The declaration also criticized Mead's supporters for the hurried, eleventh-hour nature of their campaign, completing Farley's breach with his old cohorts.

Nevertheless, Tammany Hall, the New York city Democratic organization, with 155 convention votes, climb-

Up to Saturday noon, the two candidates who had filed in the race for district judges in the September 8 primary were unopposed, Judge David I. Garrett having filed for re-election, and Frank W. Hawthorne having qualified for the judgeship to be vacated by Judge J. T. Shell, who is to retire.

In the race for district attorney, George Lester, the present assistant district attorney, has qualified and he is thus far being opposed only by John F. McCormick.

The deadline for filing as candidates with the Democratic executive district committee expires at midnight, July 31, stated Judge Charles Schulze, chairman of the group.

The chief interest in the city election centers around the race for city marshal, with five candidates already qualified Saturday. They are as follows:

Basil Risher, incumbent; Marcus Kahn, Percy Walker, Floyd Ferrington and William Causey.

In the race for city judge, W. M. Harper, incumbent, has qualified.

In West Monroe, Jesse S. Heard has announced for city judge and candidates for city marshal are: T. J. (Tom) Brown and R. L. Kilgore, incumbent.

Candidates for places on the Ouachita parish school board are as follows: W. Barlow Inabnet, Ward 10; Dr. J. C. Stewart, Ward 5; G. F. Owens, Ward 9; S. L. Hendrix, Ward 9; Charles B. Griggs, Ward 8; J. H. Trousdale, Ward 10; Sam Lantrip, Ward 5; and C. A. McCain, Ward 8.

While several others have announced that they will make the race for congress, up to Saturday noon those who had actually qualified were Newt V. Mills, incumbent, and Charles E. McKenzie. Others who are expected to qualify shortly are Orlin (Speedy) Rhoades and Nathan Ewing.

DO NOT DAMPEN SOLDIER MORALE

Red Cross So Warns When Letters Are Written Doughboys

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 25.—(Special)—Be careful what you write to the fighting men of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

This is the advice of hundreds of American Red Cross workers who come into contact daily with the troubles and personal problems of American service men both at home and abroad.

Too many times, they warn, the folks at home pour forth petty family problems in letters to their boys who are away in camp or fighting at the front. The result in many cases is the demoralization of a brave soldier. The loving mother, sweetheart, uncle or aunt unwittingly may be aiding the enemy.

There are too many cases, Red Cross workers declare, of a soldier, sailor or marine receiving a wire, "Come home, mother seriously ill." Verification of the facts by the Red Cross often reveals that there was no real reason for alarm. Mother, it appears, had been suffering from an illness for many years. It was no worse at the time the wire was sent, but she sent it, because she had a motherly desire to see her son.

During the waiting period, while Red Cross workers check the facts in the soldier's home town, the army is confronted with a bewildered, worried boy, who but a moment before was a determined soldier.

Red Cross workers have encountered numerous cases where a lovesick sweetheart wishing to have a visit with her soldier boy friend has forged a wire stating that "Aunt Mary" is ill and not expected to live through the day. Red Cross workers are soon able to wire back the comforting news that no illness exists, but meanwhile another soldier has spent agonizing hours trying to visualize the actual conditions at home.

Cases of suicide of service men have been reported to the Red Cross which were directly traceable to the thoughtless letter of the "girl friend" at home in which she wrote the service man that she no longer cared for him.

By far the majority of the cases investigated by Red Cross Home Service workers are legitimate. In these instances, the Red Cross mobilizes its forces both in the soldier's camp and in his home town to provide financial assistance, arrange for transportation and aid to his family during an emergency.

It is the minority of letter writers who bring about demoralization among the troops. Many of these writers are unintentionally worrying the service man, a few deliberately. Most of them are merely too prone to seek comfort on small personal problems from a soldier who himself needs the united support of his family at home.

California's Devil's Postpile National Monument had 8,239 visitors in 1940.

Monroe Air School Navigator

If anyone should ask how many one armed paperhangers there are out at Monroe's navigation school, there is an officer out there who could give the answer.

He is Lieutenant Daniel C. Endom, the post statistical officer. What's more, Lieutenant Endom could tell you how many were southpaws and how many righthanders.

There aren't any paperhangers out there, anyway, but this will give you an idea of Lieutenant Endom's job.

Lt. Daniel Endom

"In a nutshell," says the lieutenant, who is proof that nothing is safe today from statistical observation, least of all the army air forces, "in a nutshell, my job is to see that several different kinds of reports are made at prescribed intervals."

Some of the reports are weekly, some bi-weekly and some monthly. The reports tell how many of what kind of personnel are on the field. For example, how many staff sergeants, how many first lieutenants who are flying officers, how many from the medical corps, the corps of engineers, and so on ad infinitum.

One thing of special interest to Monroe about the post statistical officer is that Lieutenant Endom comes from a former Monroe family. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Endom, lived here before moving to Stamps, Ark., where the lieutenant was born and raised. And a generation earlier, Lieutenant Endom's grandfather was well known here as City Judge Endom.

Lieutenant Endom was graduated in 1934 from St. Edward's university, Austin, Tex. He joined the Sun Oil company immediately, and rose from the job of roustabout in the oil fields to that of chief field clerk of the company's Dallas division within five years. He entered the service last June 2, and began his duties in the statistical office of the southeast training center headquarters at Maxwell Field, Alabama.

Lieutenant Endom is married to the former Miss Anna Catherine Moser, of Dallas, Tex. The couple came here last month.

Talk about the army mule—there are four of them out at the navigation school.

These mules aren't exactly mascots, however, because they put in a good day's hard work to earn their fodder.

They haul fuel for T. L. James and company, one of the firms doing construction work out at the field. T. L. James bought them three years ago from the Good Pine Lumber company, of Good Pine, La. The price was $260 for the four of them, with harnesses and two week's feed thrown in—a pretty good bargain.

They average nine years of age, and their names are Red, Frank, Blue, and John. All of them are sound, except John, who is "windbroke." This condition was brought about by a sunstroke some years ago, and as a result John has trouble breathing in hot weather. In the winter, though, he can work as well as his fellows.

The company uses them in a team of three, giving each of them a day off every fourth day—which is better than most of us do.

It costs a dollar a day to feed all four of the mules, and nothing at all to shelter them. They are simply pastured on the field.

Their immediate boss is Oscar V. Thomas, of Kelly, La., who uses them mostly to drag oil and gasoline drums around the field on a sled. Mr. Thomas can get to spots that are inaccessible to trucks, even jeeps. The fuel is used for the bulldozers and other heavy equipment unsuited for maneuvering.

Mr. Thomas was asked if any of the mules had ever kicked anyone.

Not as far as he knew, he answered, allowing nevertheless that there had been some very narrow escapes.

Last Friday the first test flight of a plane repaired by the Monroe subdepot took place out at the air field.

This event brought out several interesting points about the sub-depot and its relation to the A. A. F. navigation school here.

In the first place, the test hop was the final step in one of the important functions of a sub-depot—keeping planes in repair and in the air. The plane was damaged on the Monroe field. It was then turned over to the sub-depot. The sub-depot's responsibility included repairing and checking the plane. This was done in the sub-depot's shop, located for the time being in a hangar on the field.

When the shop finished with the plane, it was checked by the test pilot. With an OK from the shop and an OK from the test pilot, the plane was returned to control of operations authorities—who had it before it came a cropper.

That's a brief overall picture of one of the jobs the Monroe sub-depot will be doing for the navigation school's planes here.

For a test pilot, incidentally, Lieutenant James M. Harris, Monroe sub-depot commander, had to call on a friend of his, Captain Ned B. Chase, engineering officer and chief test pilot of the Barksdale sub-depot at Shreveport. But when the Monroe sub-depot reaches full strength, it will have its own engineering officer and chief test pilot.

After Captain Chase had taken the plane up and "wrung it out," Lee J. Corkill, sub-depot shop superintendent here, was asked whether the plane had weathered the test Mr. Corkill, who had charge of the repair job, had a ready answer.

"We sold it," he said.

LUCIAN AUSTIN SAWYER

FIREMEN PUT OUT FIRE AT SWARTZ

Pumping water through 900 feet of hose from a nearby bayou, Monroe firemen put out a fire at the Frizzell Brick Company near Swartz Friday afternoon.

Roofs were burned off two kilns, and were set on fire by the excessive heat from the kilns. The brick company is owned by B. T. Crawford and Bruce Frizzell. Firemen on truck No. 5 answered the call at 4:20 p.m. and returned to Monroe at 7:40 p.m.

LUCIAN SAWYER IS APPOINTED

Young Man Named To Enter U. S. Naval Academy In Annapolis

Lucian Austin Sawyer, 19, son of Mrs. Julius Guinn, of Pollock, and L. E. Sawyer, has just been appointed by Congressman Newt V. Mills to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. He will leave tonight and will make a short stay in Baltimore and Washington before he enters on his new duties.

Young Sawyer graduated from the Ouachita Parish High school two years ago and then attended Tech. He showed a high degree of scholarship throughout his school and college days and has been a member of the staff of Ford, Bacon and Davis in Marshall, Tex., for the past few months and is leaving their employ to pursue his course in Annapolis.

A wide circle of friends, being interested in his career, are anticipating that he will make the best possible use of the superior advantages that are now opened to him. Incidentally he is a first cousin of Mrs. Irene Reid.

Young Sawyer, it is stated, was advanced for admission to Annapolis without taking mental examinations.

Germany permits private use of automobiles only when such operation is in the interest of the war effort or vitally necessary.

APPLICATION MADE FOR SEA SCOUT SHIP

An application has been filed with the Ouachita Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America for a charter for a Sea Scout ship which will be named the "Lexington."

If the charter is granted, as it almost assuredly will be, according to Olan H. Black, scout executive, the Lexington will be the only Sea Scout unit in the Ouachita Valley council. It is being sponsored by the Central Trades and Labor Council of Monroe.

Members of the ship committee are K. S. Calhoun, chairman; Charles O. Kovaleshi, Robert Ralph Pribble, Emory E. Dyer and Oscar Freeman.

Dr. Harold Miller will be the skipper and E. N. Mansberg, Jr., the mate. Charter members of the crews are Billy Matthews, Maurice Phillips, James Lewis, James Ellerbe, Watson Dupont, Bill Sher, Neill Matthews, Louis Sheppert, Jarrell Hulin, Duncan Smith, John Collier, Sonny Ellis, Alfred Haile, Rice Gregory, C. D. Wallace, Jr., John W. Breazeal, Jr., Bill Hardin, Bubba Russell, Claude Younger, Bob Miller, Joseph Mickel, Lamar Driscoll and Van Clark.

HOLDS RECORD

Lord Beaverbrook even has telephones scattered around the yards of his two homes. He has more telephones than any other individual in England.

DOLL CONTEST WILL BE HELD TUESDAY

The Georgia Tucker playground will stage a doll show on Tuesday when girls are urged to attend and bring their dolls to be entered in a contest.

Prizes will be awarded for the largest doll, the tallest doll, the oldest doll, the prettiest doll in costume, and for the most unusual doll, as well as for the best home-made doll and the most lifelike and most beautiful doll.

Playground leaders have worked faithfully for some days in making plans for this unique event and the girls have been equally busy in fashioning dolls and getting out their entrants in the various events.

FILLING STATION MEN WILL MEET

A special meeting of all owners and operators of filling stations in Ouachita parish has been called for Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Hotel Frances.

The chief speaker will be S. Jack Rogers, parish chairman of the war stamp and bond sales, who has called the meeting.

The purpose will be to encourage owners and employes to assign 10 per cent of their weekly earnings and wages for war bonds and stamps.

PLUCKY FARMER IS SHOWING 1ST BOLL

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., July 25.—(Special)—Ollie Frits, of Lake Providence, is exhibiting his first cotton boll grown on a four-acre tract here. He promises to start picking soon.

With little or no financial backing this man with a wife and eight children have farmed a strip of land behind the levee which they have tended with painstaking care. While the cotton has been growing they have raised a victory garden and sold vegetables therefrom.

Y. W. C. A. AIDS NUMEROUS GIRLS

Work Financed By Means Of Twin City Community Chest

Report of the activities of the Y. W. C. A. in Monroe was given at the meeting of the Council of Social agencies, at Hotel Frances, Friday noon.

This group is able to function through the financial support that is afforded by the Community chest.

The report in part is given as follows:

"The Young Women's Christian assosociation is a world-wide membership organization of women and girls who come together in voluntary association for the common good of all and for helping to build better communities in which to live. The Y. W. C. A. is an idea as much as it is an organization; this idea is to help girls and women to grow into the finest personalities and accept their responsibility in building a better community. The Y. W. C. A. idea means a concern for women wherever they are or whoever they might be. It seeks the highest development for each person in her abilities, appreciations, attitudes, and skills in all of its programs and activities. How can I help —to solve the problems of American democracy, to create a world at peace?

"What can I do to help the young people in my community to participate in an effective way in the community life today, to help adolescent girls find that inner security that will enable them to live constructively in this world that is so troubled? Such are some of the questions that thoughtful adults are asking today. Young people of today must have actual experience in democratic living and problem solving if they are to be effective. The Y. W. C. A. is helping to provide this experience, this training for the future, this training for leadership.

"Everywhere today we see in communities the informal grouping of young people into clubs, which are a natural part of their living. These clubs are an effort to achieve some of the things necessary to growth in the world today. Adults see in these clubs opportunities to work with young people, for through these groups the leaders can help the young people to achieve the worthwhile things and the things they want for themselves. The Y. W. C. A. realizes the importance of these clubs and thus has as integral parts of its program Girl Reserve clubs and Business Girls' clubs. 'The world we build depends upon the character we build.' The Y. W. C. A. realizes the great responsibility of character-building groups and stresses the value of its clubs which help to build character and finer personalities.

"All of the program and the activities of the local Y. W. C. A. are made possible by the contribution which the Y. W. C. A. receives from the Twin City Community chest."

NAVY LEADS WAY TO USEFUL LIFE

Recruiting Wheeler Explains Opportunities That Are Offered

Chief Machinist's Mate G. R. Wheeler, recruiter in charge of the United States navy recruiting office, 304 post-office building, Monroe, wants to impress on every man that wants to serve his country that they have a very important decision to make. Today, every true American is asking himself one question. It comes from the heart; "How can I help my country most?" Mr. You, the navy needs you, and many more like you. Many of your friends have already answered your country's call to service. More will be going. Make your decision carefully. But make it while you still have time. Choose a service that will give you action, thrills, adventure, travel. A service where you'll live a rugged, healthy, outdoor life that will build you physically. A service that will make you an expert at a skilled trade—fit you to do a better fighting job now—fit you to land a better peacetime job later on. Take a step you will be proud of all your life —volunteer now for the United States navy.

Many men who have delayed too long in volunteering for the navy now regret it. Don't wait 'til it's too late. Choose your service while you are still free to do so. Remember, even though you have received your orders to report for induction under selective service, you may still volunteer for the navy. You can do so right up to the actual moment of your induction.

As our navy is great—so are its men. Red-blooded Americans who have got what it takes to fight for their country. Your navy is no greater than the men that make it. Many boys are now coming home on leave. Ask them —they know—they wouldn't change their position with anyone. You now get a furlough after you have finished your preliminary training. All these boys visit the recruiting station and they all report favorably for the navy —your navy. Many are now in trade schools and will be home later. When these boys come home they will be "on their way" to better jobs in the navy. They will be petty officers—leaders of men—and you can do the same, Mr. Wheeler assures.

The promotion of Lieutenant James M. Harris, above, from second lieutenant to first lieutenant was announced yesterday. Lieutenant Harris is commander of the Monroe sub-depot at the new navigation field here.

OFFICER AT AIR FIELD PROMOTED

J. M. Harris, Sub-Depot Commander, Is Appointed First Lieutenant

Promotion of Lieutenant James M. Harris, commander of the Monroe sub-depot of the air service command and formerly of the Barksdale sub-depot, Shreveport, from second lieutenant to first lieutenant, has been officially announced.

Lieutenant Harris arrived in Monroe on May 28 to supervise inauguration of the Monroe sub-depot, which operates in conjunction with the new army air force navigation school here, commanded by Colonel Norris B. Harbold. The Monroe sub-depot is largely staffed with personnel drawn from the Barksdale sub-depot.

The Monroe sub-depot commander was born January 23, 1918, at Center, Tex. Upon graduation from Center High school, he entered Texas A. and M. college. He was graduated in June 1941 with a B. S. degree.

Lieutenant Harris went directly into active military service from college. At Texas A. and M. he had completed the R. O. T. C. course in infantry, and he received a second lieutenant's reserve commission on May 31, 1941.

After a brief tour of duty at Camp Wolters, Tex., Lieutenant Harris went to Kelly Field, Tex., where he served during a nine-months assignment as assistant sub-depot supply officer. While at this station he transferred from the infantry to the army air forces.

Early this year Lieutenant Harris was assigned to Barksdale Field as assistant sub-depot supply officer. He held that position until his Monroe assignment.

Lieutenant Harris' promotion is dated June 17, 1942.

In Monroe, Lieutenant Harris has been joined by his wife, the former Miss Aline Low of San Augustine, Tex. The Harrises were married August 26, 1940 at Bryan, Tex.

How Good Men Go Wrong

Meditating upon the fallacy of human judgment, the perils of prognostication and the blind spots of skilled observers, we turned back to the January issue of a national publication to reread an article by a veteran press association correspondent who spent more than a dozen years in Tokyo.

The thesis of the article may be judged from this statement, quoted by the writer with approval and agreement:

"As a matter of cold fact, Japan as a Great Power is a hollow bubble, blown almost to the bursting point."

Thenceforth the article went on to assert, among other things, that:

Japanese fleets are not capable of operating successfully far from their bases. . . . But remember Pearl Harbor.

The people of Japan individually lack initiative. . . . But remember what happened in the Philippines, at Singapore, in the Aleutians.

Nippon has no ships for overseas commerce because all are needed to supply the expeditionary forces in China. . . . But remember the other expeditionary forces Japan moved by sea, while carrying on the war in China.

Gasoline is so scarce that Japanese water police could not operate their launches. . . . But there seemed to be plenty for the planes that devastated Hawaii, captured Gaum and Wake, the Philippines and Hongkong and Singapore and Burma, and bombed Australasia.

Finally, quoted with approval as of today:

"As a menace to any country of any fighting consequence, Japan does not exist. As a first-class power, Japan is a myth."

These conclusions become significant in the light of their timing—for publication almost simultaneously with the first onslaught of that war in which, up to date, the Japanese have beaten us badly.

Looks pretty bad, doesn't it? One might say that this veteran newsman scored close to zero. But that would be unfair. In spite of this and other equally erroneous appraisals of Japanese potentialities, this correspondent's batting average was ordinarily rather high.

What is the moral, and what does it all matter?

Just this: It is easy to second guess, in war. Almost any reasonably intelligent analyst can make the experts look like simpletons, after the event.

Remember how Hitler's experts worked with the Russians intimately, and knew to the last uniform button what the Reds possessed—on the strength of which the Nazis began a three-month stroll through Russia which still is going on.

FLYING TIGERS

Certainly no group of men has ever earned better the privilege of coming home from a fighting front, to visit their families, than General Chennault's Flying Tigers.

Going as volunteers to a most unpleasant situation, with inadequate equipment, outnumbered, they did one of the outstanding aerial combat jobs in history. Now a few have joined our official air forces, while others have come home.

We do not believe that such men will long be content with the placid tenor of civilian life over here. We shall be amazed if most of them are not back shooting down Japs before long.

WIDE OF THE MARK

John L. Lewis was not very convincing when he accused C. I. O. President Phil Murray of being allied with and sympathetic to Communists.

Beyond doubt there are a lot of Reds in the C. I. O.—too many occupying strategic positions in key unions. To that extent, Mr. Murray is allied with Bolsheviks. But the record shows that these Bolos entered the C. I. O. and obtained their power while Lewis was its president. The record shows that they were firmly entrenched when Lewis besought Murray to accept the presidency. The record shows that Lewis—who is no Communist, but a hard-boiled politician—played ball with those Reds for his own ends.

ASK DAD

We hadn't realized what an infant Assistant War Secretary Patterson must be, until we learned about his prophecy that gasoline and tire shortages will stop petting parties for the duration.

Shucks. We're not so old ourselves but we can hobble around. Yet even we can remember when there weren't any automobiles in general use. And do you suppose there weren't petting parties then? Ask Dad. He knows.

Traffic cops in New York find that under gasoline rationing there is little to do. Their vocabularies may become rusty.

War workers are to be frozen in their jobs for the duration, but not on the theory that a rolling stone gathers no moss.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—The Jack LaRues, despite friends' efforts to keep them together, will go to court. . . . Doctors have discovered an excess deposit of calcium in George Murphy's shoulders; he's been ordered off all exercise until it's cured. . . . Hot new romance: Tony De Marco and Margaret Lindsay, but what about his new dancing partner???

Jeanette MacDonald and MGM are about to part; salary and story troubles. . . . When George Brent goes into uniform, Ann Sheridan will invite soldier-widows Jane (Mrs. Ronald Reagan) Wyman and Brenda (Mrs. William Holden) Marshall to live at her house. . . . Someone has dug up a secret marriage in Susan Hayward's past but she won't affirm or deny.

The Bing Crosbys (Dixie Lee) are expecting again; it'll be their fifth. . . . When someone asked Vic Mature who would represent him in court at his divorce trial, he replied: "Are you kidding? I always represent myself!" . . . Lina Basquette suffered severe lacerations of her hand and arm when she tried to part two fighting dogs.

Jean Rogers and ex-husband Danny Winkler are acting like reconcilables, just as folks thought she might wed Bill Smith, Ethel Merman's divorced mate. . . . John Garfield is egging his doctor into joining him on a location trip to Tampa, just in case John needs that threatened appendectomy there. . . . Be smart! Buy war bonds!

Mrs. Dennis Morgan has passed the crisis and her baby should arrive okay in September. . . . There's now a small body of water in Kansas newly named Veronica Lake—after a small body in Hollywood. . . . Ethel Barrymore and MGM are about to get together on a three-picture deal. . . . Following Sheila Ryan's narrow escape from drowning while sea aquaplaning, studios have banned that exciting sport for contract players.

Mutterings: I'd like to French fry the next actor who qualifies his intention of enlisting by adding: "When I get my commission." Silly notion: Mae West doing a male impersonation. Financial ambition: To have an exclusive contract on Rita Hayworth's legs and charge cameramen fifty cents a shot. Ode to mayhem: "I contend, Miss Hepburn, that actors are robots—it's the director who is the real genius." Horrible thought: Suppose Charlie McCarthy should saw wood in his sleep! Wonder what the millions of women who regard their wedding dates as sacred think of Paulette Goddard's professed inability to remember hers? Nervous itch: To remind rubber conservation officials about Garbo's sneakers. Secret desire: To come upon long-haired George Montgomery sleeping, and give him an army haircut.

Bells and No-Bells: Bells to: Robert Young who, because tire restrictions make it difficult for children in his outlying neighborhood to get to school, now has an elementary school on his ranch, with three instructors for 20 youngsters. . . . Mickey Rooney's parents who, despite their remarriage to other mates, are sensible enough to be good friends and occasionally dine together with their son. . . . Carole Landis who, on being told that due to material shortages, the telephone company prefers that patrons take a two-party line, adhered to this request instead of using studio pull to get an individual line. . . . No Bells to that blonde leading lady who is telling friends she will send her daughter to an eastern school because the child interferes with her social life.

The "Why" Department: Why doesn't some bright producer get the idea of co-starring Dorothy Lamour and Johnny Weissmuller in an escapist picture? . . . Why do studios make such a big to-do about giving veteran stars real comeback opportunities (as Warners did in Regis Toomey's case) and then fail to make good? . . . Why don't Hollywood glamour gals—especially those who are beginning to sag a bit from age—get smart and realize they're destroying illusion by parading the boulevard in sloppy slacks? . . . Why don't studios meet the dangerous shortage of male talent caused by men going into service by developing new Shirley Temples and Jane Withers?

Hollywood Does Its Bit: Because some people are still hesitant about giving lifts to hitch-hiking service men, Billy Gilbert is having 10,000 stickers printed to read: Service Men Welcome to Ride. He'll distribute the stickers to local gas stations, where motorists may get them on request. . . . Bob Burns (a marine in the last war) owns a home recording outfit. Either Bob or his secretary make records of broadcasts that come by short-wave radio from soldiers made prisoners by the Japs. Burns sends these records to the families of such soldiers.

I'm tired of Crosby horse stories too, but this one from Benay Venuta, the singer, made me chuckle. Seems that one of Bing's nags was found running around the Santa Anita track last week. The horse didn't know Santa Anita had closed for the duration; he thought everybody had gone home before he finished, as usual.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

Grown people trouble children, make them afraid, by saying absurd things and asking silly questions. The children do not know that the remarks are absurd or the questions silly. To them grown people are the source of all wisdom and power and whatever they do or whatever they say has the force of destiny.

A neighbor called to see the new baby. In an effort to be cheery and friendly she said to Billy: "Well, well, so your nose is out of joint. Your mother has a new baby now. She won't want you. Maybe she will give you to me? How would you like that?"

Billy scowled, dug his toe into the rug and finally exploded: "I wouldn't like you at all and you go home and you stay there, too." Then he ran off to his room to cry heartbrokenly. The good neighbor was shocked and sorry, but bewildered too. What had she said to make him behave like that? Was he already jealous of his baby brother?

No, not yet. If she kept on telling him, however, that his mother would not want him now that she had another baby, he might be. He was frightened. His feeling of security in his mother's affection, in his home and family, was shaken. He believed that this lady meant what she said. Else why say it

Children have scant power of interpretation of phrases grown people use lightly, in ordinary conversation. "She looks exactly like her grandmother Green. Exactly. Doesn't she now?"

Everybody agrees that Dorothy looks exactly like grandmother Green. Dorothy is discovered in a corner weeping. Why? She won't, she won't, she never will, never, look like grandmother Green. "But, but, grandmother Green is lovely, and your granny—"

"She's all wrinkles and funny-looking. I won't look like her. I won't." The child is frightened out of her wits at the thought that she looks like this 80-year-old granny. Of course she should have known, but she was 4 years old and took what the grown people said literally, knowing no other way.

Don't say, "I'll steal you when your mother isn't looking. You're a bad child and the blue goblin that lives in the fire will come to get you. The boogey man will catch you. Your mother won't love you if you are bad. Will you give your baby brother to me? You're naughty and I'm going to take your mother home with me and leave her where you can't see her. The teacher will fix you when you go to school. Wait until the doctor gets you. You'll see what he will do to you."

Such statements and questions frighten children, so why say them? When children are frightened in that way they brood over the fear and it makes them cross, timid, defensive, fearful. It checks their growth because unhappy, fearful children cannot grow in health. Don't be funny, don't threaten, just be human with children. They are human and if met on that ground respond intelligently and happily.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson for August 2
Text: Genesis 12:1-9; Hebrews 11:8-12
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Abraham stands in our Jewish-Christian tradition as the first great migrant, or emigrant. He was a pioneer in faith, but he was a pioneer in other respects as well.

A great deal that we can imagine or conjecture, but that probably has a real basis of fact, stands in the background of Abraham's adventurous journey from Ur into Palestine. He was leaving the scene of an older civilization and a fertile land, and it could be said with some truth that he went out not knowing whither he was going, except that he had the strong urgency of a call. In this respect, Abraham was like other emigrants and immigrants down almost to our own time. In the building up of our own country, we have seen how men and women left the older, settled communities to risk the long journey and the dangers of the prairies and to surmount the almost impassable barrier of the mountains, reaching out ever for new and undeveloped fields. It is the pioneer urge, difficult for stay-at-homes to understand, but nevertheless a very powerful and vital urge in human history and one the nature of which those who feel it most strongly could hardly themselves explain.

In Abraham's case, there may have been a very definite explanation for, so far as we know, the worship of Ur of the Chaldees was idolatrous. This may have been true of Abraham's own home. Apparently a strong element in his experience was the sense of a living God, and the desire to get away to a new land where he might be free to exercise his religious convictions, and to build a civilization in harmony with the truth and righteousness he had discovered, may have been, even more than any impulse toward adventure or pioneering, the occasion of his making the long journey to Palestine. In any case, he stands as the father of the faithful. Jesus spoke of him as having seen His day, although Arraham saw it by faith rather than in the glory of a large and splendid realization.

We may read some things in our lesson in the light of later times and nobler ideals. We might question whether God makes abitrary choice of one people and chooses that people to the cursing of others. That does not seem to accord with the later revelation of the New Testament that God hath made of one blood all peoples and races. We should always remember that in these earlier chapters of Jewish history we are dealing with relatively primitive religion and primitive conditions. The Bible is a record of a progressive revelation, and we find a higher plane of life and thought in many respects in the New Testament than we do in the far-off beginnings.

But what we ought to grasp is the immense distance that Abraham had advanced beyond his own age in the conception of God and in the conception of life and duty. We shall find this coming out even more strongly when we come to study Abraham's intercessory prayer, and when we consider his relation with Lot when strife arose between the herdsmen of the two men over the most fertile pastures. We find Abraham taking such a nobly unselfish stand, willing to sacrifice his own interests rather than engage in strife, that he has set a standard of advancement behind which a world at war today sadly lags. It will be a long time in some respects before we catch up with Abraham.

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

While you had your eyes glued on the more important war news, you may not have realized that right at home the war has been building up around you new super-governmental setup of over 20 commissions, committees and councils which influence practically every phase of your daily life. These committees have wartime emergency powers, and are created by and with the consent of the governed, but they do things to you which you would never permit in peacetime. The way they regulate your daily doings is really something to be amazed at. Just check off the list as it hits your community and as it hits you:

If you live in a municipal area, at the top of the heap is the local Defense Council. In a rural area it may be known as the County War Board.

Your Defense Council runs the civilian mobilization program, where you and the members of your family have registered for all manner of odd jobs—for which you won't get paid a cent—from minding other people's children to being an auxiliary policeman.

If you are in an area open to enemy attack, you may be mustered into a Citizens Defense Corps as an air raid warden or a bomb putter outer. Or, you may be recruited in the Citizens Service Corps, teaching people how to eat right, or checking prices charged by local merchants.

You have submitted to a Draft Board which takes your husband or sons or brothers right out of your family for duty in the army.

Your men folk have, or soon will, fill out forms indicating their special skills. If those skills can be used to advantage in war production, the men may be politely requested, if not told, to go do this—there—and like it.

There is a War Savings Stamp Committee working on you to put 10 per cent of your pay into war bonds.

Transportation Tangle

In war production areas, there will be transportation committees having very definite say-so over how you go to work, and when. Hours for going to school, to factory, to white-collar office jobs will be staggered to eliminate traffic jams on your transportation system. You are being urged to take your neighbors to work, or ride with them. These transport committees may be regulating your comings and goings, more and more as the war moves on.

Salvage committees urge you to save all manner of things you formerly threw away. You collect old iron, copper and aluminum, donate all the old rubber you can find, hunt through attic and closet for old rags, save your kitchen greases, turn in old toothpaste tubes, and in some 28 metropolitan areas, clean, flatten and store your old tin cans.

You must submit to the regulations of all manner of rationing boards. Rationing boards for the purchase of new tires or getting permission to have your old ones recapped. Rationing boards for sugar. In some areas, rationing for gasoline. And this is only the beginning. There will be rationing of some 15 other items.

In war production areas, where housing situations are critical, there are rent control boards which limit the amount local landlords can charge for rent.

In farm areas committees may solicit your services to help take off the crops when harvest time comes around.

Dancing, Doughnuts

Unofficially, the Red Cross committees and the USO committees may be soliciting you for everything from a pint of blood to a few hours dancing with or dishing out doughnuts to doughboys.

Now all this plethora of committees, competing for your help, is bound to create some confusion when superimposed on your normal local government machinery.

The Office of Civilian Defense is beginning to realize that this confusion exists and may get more chaotic. OCD is making a survey—all government agencies have to make surveys before they get anything done—and it hopes to "co-ordinate all these programs"—to repeat the most banal cliche in official government lingo. Anyway, the idea is to decide which committee's work is most urgent, and to get it done first.

But why do you submit to all this? The answer, citizen, is that you do these things because this is a free country and no one can shove you around. Not unless they have your permission, anyway. In this case, you submit to this extra-local government in small things so that nobody named Adolf can shove you around at some later date on matters of larger import. This is your sacrifice to help win the war.

HARRISON IN HOLLYWOOD

By Paul Harrison
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD—A lot of famous people usually are involved in working out a movie story and putting it on the screen, and "Eagle Squadron" is no exception. But there was one fellow who had more to do with it than the producer or the writers, the director or the stars. He was a studio office boy and his name was Eugene Quimby Tobin.

Tobin was a redheaded, freckled youngster who did chores at Metro and had a brash habit of calling bigshots by their first names. He found Hollywood tame. So he took a few flying lessons, and when the Germans started into France he decided to get in on the excitement.

The office boy got into the French air corps by claiming he had 2,000 hours of flying. But before they could find a ship for him the Germans had taken over. Red and another American, Shorty Keough (Vernon Charles Keough of Brooklyn), caught a trawler for England.

Into The War

When they asked for jobs in the R. A. F., Red declared he had 5,000 hours of experience but had mislaid his log book. The British needed fighter pilots but said he'd have to prove it, so they wheeled out a fast trainer.

"If you stay up high enough you can't go wrong," Red wrote his father, Quimby Tobin, back in Hollywood. "I stayed up so long they began to worry that maybe I'd stolen their plane."

So the next day they put him in a Spitfire. "Gosh, Pop, I never saw so many dials in my life," Red wrote. "I didn't dare ask what they were for. But I took the Spitter up high again, and they let me join the R. A. F."

Shorty Geough got in, too, and he and Red fought through the Battle of Britain. The day Red got his first Jerry bomber he wrote, "I almost made a hell of a mistake, Pop; I went in too fast and had to slow down before I squirted him."

Quite a lot of American volunteers were coming over, and the R. A. F. formed a separate outfit of these youngsters. It was the Eagle Squadron and Red and Shorty were the charter members.

Attention of aircraft designers is being given to a synthetic resin-lined hose for instrument, oil, hydraulic and fuel lines. This product is an adequate replacement for synthetic rubber-lined hose and, as an added virtue, it is even impervious to the benzol-blend fuels used in the Far East.

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: We've been having some hot days, but what a relief follows a twenty-minute thundershower! As the furious pelting of big cupful raindrops began, I was caught under the marquee of the Ritz. . . . It looked as though it might rain a long time, so I took refuge in the Chinese Garden in the center of the hotel building, and ordered calf's brains and spinach, which make a mighty feast if you get them cooked properly. . . . The torrent fell from the sky directly into the artifical pool that runs down the center of the Garden, so the dining was cool and restful. . . . And when the meal was finished, so was the storm—perfect timing. . . . I've been getting spare-time entertainment out of "City Lawyer," by Arthur Garfield Hays. The author denies that he is descended from three presidents, Chester A. Arthur, James A. Garfield, and Rutherford B. Hayes. He comes of immigrant Jewish stock, and the Hayes goes back at least to his grandfather. . . . Franklin Pierce Adams has a mighty patriotic-sounding, statesman-like name, too, but the famous F. P. A. isn't at all descended from Franklin, Pierce, or The Adamses.

New York police do not use an automatic pistol, as do police in many cities. The police gun is a revolver, firing five or six shots. It is cocked by hand for each shot.

I have talked with many policemen about this, and they all agree that they carry the best police arm in existence.

The advantage they claim for it over the automatic pistol is that it is extremely accurate and easy to aim.

Cocking the hammer helps in the aiming of the barrel, they say. They do not admit that they fire more slowly than a bandit armed with an automatic, and they're sure that they fire more accurately.

It's true that New York policemen have won a well-deserved reputation for straight shooting. Still, within a few days two innocent bystanders have been shot dead by police bullets. A man of sixty, standing on the sidewalk, got in the way of a bullet aimed at a fleeing burglar. A girl of 24, sitting in an automobile, was shot through the head by a bullet fired from a police car at a taxi in which holdup men were fleeing.

Such instances are bound to occur in a crowded city. Even if the police bullet is aimed directly at the bandit, someone may step in between the muzzle and the target.

A neat little boy, probably ten years old, stands outside one of the big retail markets, holding the tongue of his express wagon. It is not a new wagon, but stout and clean, and it is lined with fresh, clean newspapers.

The wagon is so placed that women emerging from the market, arms filled with bundles, can read the neat sign, printed with pencil upon a sheet of writing paper that has been pasted upon a cardboard from a laundred shirt:

"Bundles delivered for ten cents."

The young man is timid. Yes, this is his first day in business. He thought it would be a good idea to earn a little money for summer vacation, and Mother had finally consented. He had no business yet, but felt sure some lady would let him carry her packages home for her.

I hope he is meeting with success. To have one's first business venture go on the rocks is often very disconcerting.

Two grand friends of this column lately ceased writing their regular and encouraging letters. After a little interval, friends sent me newspaper accounts of their passing.

One was Lansing Robinson, of San Diego. He was a retired railroad man, and always wrote on yellow paper, as so many railroaders do. He was one of the best-informed men on my list of regular correspondents. I shall miss his friendly, fatherly advice and conversation

The other is Tom Manson, of Indiana, who wrote wise and witty letters, and last year sent me a gourd wren-house that hangs just outside my window.

1. If a naval officer came up to you wearing this insignia on his uniform would you say "hello, admiral," "hi, lieutenant," or "how do you do, captain"?

To whom is this verse disrespectfully dedicated?

Miss Evelyn Ann Baur Weds Lieutenant Jefferson Smith At St. Francisville

Wedding Characterized By Wartime Simplicity

Impressive Ceremony Performed At Twilight In St. James Episcopal Church

A wedding characterized by wartime simplicity but not lacking in beauty of detail was that of Miss Evelyn Ann Baur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Baur of this city and Lieutenant Jefferson Davis Smith, Jr., son of Mrs. J. D. Smith and the late Lieutenant Commander Smith of St. Francisville, La., July 10, at St. James Episcopal church, Baton Rouge, La., with the rector, Dr. Christian, officiating in the presence of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was performed at twilight with myriad cathedral tapers burning in brass candelabra pricking the dimness of the altar. Southern smilax festooned the chancel and choir loft and long-handled baskets overflowing with superb white gladioli formed a flowery enclosure for the wedding party.

The lighting of the tapers while the prenuptial concert was rendered was a distinctive feature of the ceremony.

The bride's attendant, Miss Marylie Beatty, wore an apple green linen ensemble with white accessories and carried an arm bouquet of peach-colored gladioli.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. William B. Smith.

The bride wore a distinctive white embroidered pique model with wide-brimmed white hat and all accessories of white. She carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses and for something old an exquisite necklace of blue opals, a gift from the bridegroom.

Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left for a honeymoon in New Orleans. The bride traveled in a smartly tailored suit of beige with handsome accessories of brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Quantico, Va.

The bride is a graduate of the Neville High school and the Louisiana State University, class of 1942, where many honors were conferred upon her. She was selected sponsor of Company A and was named a co-ed cadette. She was active in Y. W. C. A. circles and was a member of Phi Mu social sorority.

Lieutenant Smith is a graduate of the Julius Freyhan school in St. Francisville and attended preparatory school near Baltimore, Md. He is a graduate of L. S. U. where he was an outstanding cadet in the 1942 military graduating class. He received the honorary appointment to the United States marine corps. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Alpha Zeta Block and Bridle club, Scabbard and Blade Military organization. While at L. S. U. he was captain of Company A Infantry.

It is interesting to note that Lieutenant Smith is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Boyle Smith of Solitude plantation, one of the historic old homes in West Feliciana parish. It was built in 1778 and owned by the Smith family for more than 150 years. Rev. Henry Smith came from England in 1668 and settled in Weatherford, Conn., where he established the first Congregational church in this country. He settled with his family in Louisiana during the Revolutionary war period.

Lieutenant Smith is the grand nephew of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy. His father, the late Lieutenant-Commander Smith, distinguished himself in the first World war.

Report Of Convention Given P.-T. A. Members

To the nation's 28,500 Parent-Teacher associations this week went the findings of the recent convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, as a guide for the work of more than 2,600,000 members during the coming year.

Declaring that "military victory will be spiritual defeat if the needs of children are forgotten in the struggle," the findings present a five-point wartime program of activities designed to achieve "America strong, with spirit free," which was the theme of the convention.

It should be noted that it is the policy of the national congress not to adopt resolutions at its conventions, but to bring findings which crystallize in terms of parent-teacher work what has been determined through discussions and conferences at the convention sessions.

The five divisions of the findings, sent from the national congress' Chicago headquarters, are: health, education, recreation, conservation, and social welfare. Under health the findings point out that "maintaining the health of the family is one of the most effective forms of service on the home front." Emphasis is placed on the school lunches; training courses in group feeding; classes in home nursing; physical examinations of children; immunization; fighting of venereal disease through elimination of commercialized vice.

Asserting that "human resources are still the nation's greatest asset," the findings, under education, term the classroom "a most important workshop in our war effort," and declare:

"We vigorously oppose any curtailment of educational opportunity for American children and youth. Condensation and acceleration at the college level are helpful for those needed in industrial and military forces. Integration of a work program with the program of the high schools should be developed. But the total educational opportunity offered to our children and young people should not suffer."

Summarizing under this division, the findings say: "Present day youth must be educated, by home, by school, by communities working together, for the great task of rebuilding the world after the war, so that victorious democracies may win the peace."

Recreation, the findings point out, "gives a fresh realization of interdependence; it heightens comradeship and fellowship and relieves tension and emotional stress."

Regular purchase of war bonds and stamps is included in activities under conservation by the findings which declare: "Values as well as materials must be preserved, and planning must include the long-time welfare of the country and its people."

The social welfare section calls for a nationwide plan for identification and registration of children "so that in case of disaster they can be identified and their friends and relatives located." This section also urges that "until all sources of adult labor have been exhausted, children and youth should not be drawn into the labor force before completion of their education." This section concludes:

"Let us bring up a generation that will consider it a sacred duty to share in recreating this world and then persist in believing, aspiring, and doing, to keep it a decent place in which to live."

Mrs. Earl C. Miller is state chairman of war activities. She recently sent letters to all unit presidents outlining the work in this field for the coming year.

Legion Auxiliary To Aid In Record Drive

Mrs. Ted Mahr, local president of the American Legion auxiliary, desires to call attention of the public to an article received from national headquarters regarding the collection of records for members of the armed forces.

Mrs. Mark W. Murrill, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, says:

"Having pledged an all-out effort in records for our fighting men drive, the 525,000 women of the American Legion Auxiliary, aided by their daughters and neighbors, can achieve an objective which is close to every woman's heart.

"By December, some four and a half million boys will be in uniform. They'll need music, entertainment, and recreation in the few hours allotted for these purposes. Our opportunity is now at hand to help provide the means to send records and phonograph players to these boys.

"I am asking every Auxiliary member not only to make certain that we reach our national quota of 37,500,000 old records, but also to use this campaign as an educational example of the value of conservation in wartime. We are making sacrifices so that our men will be well trained, well armed and fully able to achieve victory. We must learn and teach others the importance of making the best of the things we have. Putting old records to this use constitutes a model example.

"In this campaign the lesson is evident. For twenty-five years our families have been putting aside hundreds of millions of old phonograph records. These records have been occupying dusty corners in attics, basements and storerooms. Now that we are at war, we find that these old discs have salvage value. With the funds obtained from their sale as scrap, we can make our boys in the fighting forces happier with new records and phonograph players. It's the Legion's duty to salvage 37,500,000 old discs to gain this end.

"The women of the Auxiliary must set an example for other Americans. Our friends and neighbors will turn to us with questions as to how they can help. We must familiarize ourselves with every phase of this campaign, so that we can guide them.

"Here is an opportunity. Let us make the most of it. We have our resources in local posts, our goodwill in the community, and our resolution that we shall not fail the boys for whom we are working. The rest is up to you."

Cocktail Hour Of Mr. And Mrs. Keenan At Virginia Hotel Is Enjoyable Event

Annual conventions, in addition to bringing old friends together in a spirit of comradery year after year, also leave a chain of pleasant memories. This year's state convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary in this city will find everyone who attended in a state of pleasant reminiscing for months to come.

There were many pleasant moments socially, with a few affairs, as is usually the case, claiming prominence

The cocktail hour in Mr. and Mrs. J. L Keenan's attractive suite at the Virginia hotel was an enjoyable interlude those present will never forget. The guests were all intimate friends and have been meeting at these conventions year after year.

Gathered in conversational groups, the guests were served tall, frosted glasses of mint julep, the most popular drink the south has ever known. Trays of hors d'oeuvres were passed by white clad attendants.

Among the guests were several who distinguished themselves in the first World war including the past national commander of the American Legion, Colonel Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, Mich., Captain John D. Ewing of Shreveport, La., and Colonel D. W. Spurlock, also of Shreveport. Others present were: Mr and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs H. Flood Madison, Jr., Mrs. Richard Redwood, national vice-president of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. E. A. Campbell, Mrs. R. B. Howell, Mrs. Mae Kelly, state president of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. H. B. McClendon, Miss Carmen Breazeale, Mrs W. H Huckabay and Mrs. Alfred Reid.

A breakfast and a luncheon on the terrace of the Frances hotel and a garden party with Mrs. James A. Noe, hostess, were included among the social affairs of prominence marking the auxiliary program. Highlighting the three-day convention program was the banquet on the Frances hotel terrace with all auxiliary delegates in formal evening attire.

The Stars and Stripes, everywhere in evidence, created a patriotic theme accentuated in the table decor. Red and white flowers in flag blue crystal bowls formed gay splashes of color down the full length of the long tables.

There was a blithe spirit of gayety prevalent despite the seriousness of the times and the bits of conversation concerning the adverse war news. All in all it was a gay company—charming people in a fascinating scale of ages and interests who dined leisurely on the delicious food and talked of other, rappier day when "hearts were young and gay."

Miss Lou Olive Phillips entertained the members of the Euchre club and some additional guests at the community house. Miss Marjorie Gaunt Weds Myron Morehous

Member Of O. P. H. S. Faculty Marries Lysander, N. Y., Man At Texarkana, Tex.

The sincere interest of friends in this city is centered in the marriage of Miss Marjorie Arilla Gaunt, member of the Ouachita Parish school faculty, and Mr. Myron O. Morehous, in Texarkana, July 10.

The following account of the wedding appeared in the social section of the Texarkana Gazette:

A simple but beautiful wedding of the week-end was that of Miss Marjorie Arilla Gaunt, daughter of Mrs. L. N. Gaunt and the late L. N. Gaunt of Texarkana, Tex., formerly of Shreveport, La., to Myron Oothoudt. Morehous, of Lysander, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn Morehous, Sr., of Lysander, N. Y.

The ceremony was at high noon Friday, Dr. James B. Leavell officiating with the double ring ceremony. The wedding was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Pryor, 1609 New Boston road, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a small group of friends. The occasion was marked with much sentiment as the ceremony was held in the same home, the ancestral home of Mrs. Gaunt's family, in which the parents of the bride were married 26 years ago.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with white gladioli and white shasta daisies in tall baskets, bamboo and palms. On the mantle was a beautiful arrangement of shasta daisies tied with a large white satin bow, the whole reflected in a large mirror over the mantle-piece, which was banked with bamboo, forming an altar effect.

A beautiful program of wedding music was played by Mrs. Lloyd White, pianist.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary Cole of Shreveport, La. She wore a flesh and green dress with flesh linen coat and pink accessories. Her corsage was of flesh carnations tied with white ribbons. The bride's gift to her was a lovely pair of antique earrings.

Benjamin Pace, of Monroe, La., attended the bridegroom as best man. He was presented a leather billfold as a gift from the bridegroom.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by her uncle, William Troy Gaunt, of Little Rock, Ark. She was beautiful in a street-length dress of toast and aqua and an aqua linen coat. Hat and shoes of toast color and cobra shoes completed her costume. She carried a white prayer book showered with a singe orchid tied with white satin streamers from which fell a shower of butterfly orchids.

Mrs. L. N. Gaunt, the bride's mother, wore an ice blue dress with accessories to match and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Judson Pryor entertained the bridal party and wedding guests with a lovely buffet luncheon following the ceremony. Mrs. James Leavell and Miss Martha O'Neal (Shreveport) presided at the table. Covered with a crisp organdy table cloth, the table was centered with white gladioli and shasta daisies and ornamented with a beautiful tiered wedding cake, which was cut by the bride according to custom.

Miss Mary Ann Gaunt, sister of the bride, was very charming in her white eyelet pique dress and corsage of yellow painted daisies.

After lunch, the young couple left for a honeymoon, after which they will be at home at 808 North Fourth street, Monroe, La.

The bride was graduated from Louisiana State Normal college, receiving her BS degree in home economics. During her high school days in Shreveport, she was president of Kappa Phi Delta sorority and in college was president of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority.

The bridegroom received his degree in civil engineering from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich., where he was a member of ASCE fraternity. He is now employed with the M. W. Kellogg company at Sterlington, La.

REGULAR CLEANING MAKES SUITS LAST LONGER

1 A chief enemy of fabric is perspiration. Our Sanitone dry cleaning method removes it.

2 Tiny saw-toothed particles of grit work down into the fabric and chafe the fibers. Our Sanitone dry cleaning eases out these particles.

3 Fabric fibers tend to become less flexible when natural oils are removed. Our Sanitone dry cleaning relubricates fibers, restores soft finish and luster.

'Sergeant York' Opens Engagement At Paramount Today

Gary Cooper Heads Cast In Hit Film

Joan Leslie, Walter Brennan Also Featured In Story Of World War I

"SERGEANT YORK," the film which opens today at the Paramount theater, is the factual story of Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountaineer who became America's number one soldier hero of the first World war. The original screen play, by Abem Finkel and Harry Chandlee, and Howard Koch and John Huston, is based on the diary of Sergeant York, as edited by Tom Skeyhill.

Gary Cooper stars in the title role of Alvin York. Walter Brennan and Joan Leslie, who plays Gracie Williams, the present Mrs. Alvin York, head the supporting cast of hundreds. Cooper was Sergeant York's own choice for the title role.

There are 44 major speaking parts. Twenty-six represent real life characters, most of whom are still living. The real life characters include four members of the York family; Gracie Williams; Pastor Pile, minister of York's church; the present secretary of state, Cordell Hull; General John J. Pershing; the late Marshal Foch; the late Mayor John Hylan of New York; Oscar of the Waldorf; York's divisional, regimental, battalion and company commanders during the war and ten of his soldier buddies.

Section of York's home valley, the Three Forks of the Wolf, in the Cumberland mountains of Tennessee, was duplicated at the Burbank studio on Hollywood's largest sound stage. A mountain that could be revolved (it was built on a merry-go-round type base), a 200-foot long mountain stream, pine, oak and cedar woods (121 trees in all) were features of set. A fox hunt and a turkey shoot were among many scenes filmed on this set. Also romantic scenes between Cooper and Joan Leslie.

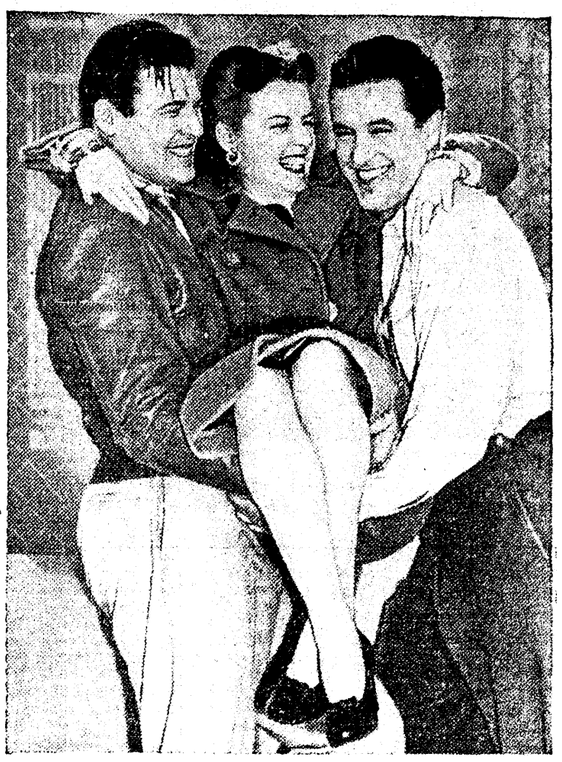
Miss Leslie, just sixteen, in exactly the age Gracie Williams was when York courted her. Gracie was seventeen when she married Alvin.

War sequences show training flashes in camp, battle action in the Argonne Forest in France. One engagement, most famous single encounter of war, is pictured in detail. This is the action where York performed his amazing feat of single-handedly killing 25 German machine gunners and, with the aid of a handful of comrades, capturing 132 prisoners. For this act he was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor, the Distinguished Service Cross, the French Croix de Guerre with palm, and other Allied valor awards. In bestowing the Croix de Guerre, Marshal Foch told York what he had done was the greatest single achievement of any soldier of all the Allied armies during the four years of the war.

Argonne battle scenes were filmed in an 80-acre battlefield set in the Santa Susanna hills. Battlefield and the action campaign were laid out in accordance with a bullet-perforated map of the actual Argonne terrain. The map was carried through the battle by an officer who loaned it to the studio.

Jon Hall, surrounded by Irene Gay, Nancy Gates, Linda Rivas and Alma Ross, appears Wednesday at the Capitol theater. Charles Laughton is starred in this happy-go-lucky story with Peggy Drake, Florence Bates and Gene Reynolds included in the cast.

The royal family of the jungle pays a visit to civilization in "Tarzan's New York Adventure," appearing on the Paramount screen Friday and Saturday. Johnny Weissmuller is again the mighty Tarzan with Maureen O'Sullivan, Virginia Gray, John Sheffield and Paul Kelly supporting.



"Wings for the Eagle," the timely drama starring Ann Sheridan, is the midnight show next Saturday night at the Paramount theater. Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson are the rivals for Ann's affection in this drama, with George Tobias and Frank Wilcox supporting.

Vivien Leigh and Clark Gable in "Gone With the Wind," playing at the Strand Monday through Thursday.

Robert Sterling and Ann Rutherford are appearing as the newlyweds in "This Time for Keeps," playing Tuesday at the Capitol theater. The supporting cast includes Guy Kibbee, Irene Rich, Virginia Weidler, and Henry O'Neill.

Carroll And Hope Stars At Capitol

'My Favorite Blonde' Opens Two-Day Engagement Here Today

PATRONS of the Capitol theater are in for a hilarious session today when Bob Hope, Madeleine Carroll and Percy, the Penguin, open in the season's speediest cops-and-robbers comedy. The picture is Paramount's "My Favorite Blonde."

According to all repute, the teaming of Hope and Carroll was an inspiration. Listeners on Hope's radio hour are thoroughly familiar with his expressions of unbounded admiration for for the beautiful Madeleine. He's been calling her "my favorite blonde" on the air for years but nobody seemed to hit on the obvious and cast them together in a picture until Paramount bought a story called "Snowball in Hell," a rollicking yarn of a ham vaudevillian who gets mixed up with Nazi spies. The character of the gorgeous British secret agent seemed made to order for Carroll. With the title changed and Hope cast as the bewildered actor, the result was "My Favorite Blonde," fastest and most furiously funny of the Hope epics.

The picture is a chase pure and simple but with a stepped-up tempo that makes for furious fun, a perfect film for Hope's brand of fast comedy.

Matching in speed and laughs the highspots of "Nothing But the Truth" and "Caught in the Draft," the story of "My Favorite Blonde" sends the Hope-Carroll-Percy combination on a thrilling cross-country race that starts in New York and ends in Hollywood. Before it's over Hope is wanted for murder, robbery, misrepresentation and a flock of other crimes, including evading arrest. He drives an oil truck, swipes a bus at a union picnic, flies a monoplane that's shot at in the air, spends a night with Madeleine in a freight car, outwits the Nazis murderers and, finally, takes a wild ride in a hearse with a secret military message that sends a flight of 150 American bombers on their way to Great Britain.

Supporting the stars is a villainous list of heavies, the spy gang, headed by Gale Sondergaard, and including George Zucco, Lionel Royce, Walter Kingsford, Victor Varconi and Otto Reichow. Sidney Lanfield directed.

A word about Percy, the Penguin! Trained by Captain Ralph Luxford, Percy perambulates in and out of the picture and steals more than one of the scenes even from that champion scene stealer, Bob Hope.

UNIFORM INDUCTION SYSTEM ADVOCATED

WEST POINT, Miss., July 25.—(AP)—Senatorial candidate Roland B. Wall today urged that all selective service boards be given uniform instructions to "end all doubts and injustices of the present application.

"While one draft board is deferring all married men under the recent mandate from congress, another board—as ordered by the Mississippi director recently—is going ahead drafting married men even though there might be many single men who have not yet been called," he declared.

Explaining he intended no criticism of individual boards trying to comply with regulations, he said, "It is my resolve to remedy the situation."

HANGARS BENEATH GROUND ADVOCATED

MERIDIAN, Miss., July 25.—(AP)—Representative Ross Collins declared tonight that he had advocated construction of underground hangars which might have mitigated Pearl Harbor and saved the Philippines and declared he believed "there would be no great world war raging today" if his ideas on armament had been heeded.

He predicted in a prepared speech that "the flying fortress and weapons yet unheard of will be responsible" for winning the war.

Collins said he had tried to obtain military bases in Alaska and that Guam's lack of fortification was due to a naval limitation treaty binding on the United States.

He asserted improved prices for cotton and cottonseed last fall were due to short crops and the agricultural appropriation bill.

CHARGES 'MISLEADING'

CARTHAGE, Miss., July 25.—(AP)—Roland B. Wall, candidate for the United States Senate, asserted today that Senator Wall Doxey was "deliberately misleading" Mississippians when he said the proposed congressional pensions would not have "cost taxpayers one cent." He quoted Representative Ramspect, Democrat, Georgia, as saying "this system is similar to the social security plan. The government contributes to the fund and the persons who benefit by it contribute."

'GONE WITH THE WIND' AT STRAND STARTING MONDAY

"Gone With the Wind," now being released for the third successive year by M-G-M, has won virtually every award in the field of motion pictures. Shortly after its premiere, it won the annual award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences as the best film of the year. David O. Selznick, producer of the picture, won the Irving Thalberg Memorial Award, at the same time, for the outstanding contribution by a producer for the year. Vivien Leigh, who plays Scarlett O'Hara, won the Academy Award as the best actress; Victor Fleming, who directed it, was named as the best director of the year; and Hattie McDaniel, who appears as Mammy, likewise won the Academy Award for the best performance by a supporting actress. The late Sidney Howard, famed playwright, was cited for the best screen play of the year; William Cameron Menzies, production designer, received a special plaque for his work in the use of color in the film and both the Technicolor and the editing of the picture were similarly honored as the outstanding achievements of the year. "Gone With the Wind" is playing at the Strand theater Monday through Thursday.

"The Mission Had Been Accomplished"

"A running fight between the bomber and the 18 Japanese pursuit planes continued for 75 miles . . . continued until the remaining pursuit ships exhausted their ammunition and turned back. With two engines gone and the plane practically out of control, the American bomber returned to its base after dark and made an emergency landing. THE MISSION HAD BEEN ACCOMPLISHED."

—President Roosevelt, in his Fireside Chat, April 28, 1942

THERE, in the words of President Roosevelt, is one of the war's most stirring episodes—a demonstration of how, with one man killed, another man's hand shot off, and a third man injured, our American boys stuck to the fight, bombed their objective, and brought their plane home.

Undoubtedly you felt a thrill when you heard it over the air, and maybe you'll have another thrill reading it again.

But your thrills won't win the war!

It takes planes—thousands of them—and tanks—thousands of them—and shells—millions of them—and bullets—billions of them! It needs ships and guns and jeeps . . .

Monroe's new Navigation School will play its part in training thousands of young men how to chart the courses for thousands of bombers that will be sent out to accomplish "missions" on every front where the United Nations are fighting the world's greatest battle for human freedom.

We welcome into our midst the defense workers who are doing their share in the great task by their preparation of the field, and the army of flyers who will make Monroe their temporary home while in training.

Great skill is required of the navigator, who steers a straight course to the "objective" and then charts the homeward path of the bomber after the mission has been accomplished. We are confident the young men trained here will prove as efficient and skillful as those from any other field.

SHUT OUT WINS $88,000 ARLINGTON CLASSIC

ARCARO TURNS IN PERFECT RIDE TO COP FIRST PLACE

Son Of Equipoise Beats Out Valdina Orphan And With Regards

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—Shut Out clinched the 3-year-old championship of the year today by galloping to victory in the $88,250 Arlington classic under one of the most magnificent rides ever delivered by Jockey Eddie Arcaro.

The handsome son of Equipoise, owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney of New York, won by three quarters of a length to the cheers of 45,000 spectators. Valdina Orphan was second, four lengths ahead of With Regards. King's Abbey was fourth in a field of nine.

The winner ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 2-5, equalling Omaha's record for the stake and was only one-fifth of a second off the track record established by Discovery in 1935.

Shut Out, closing at odds of 3 to 2, paid $3.00, $2.80 and $2.40. The place price on Valdina Orphan, coupled with Rounders as an entry, was $2.80 with $2.40 to show. With Regards returned $3.20 to show.

Shut Out, winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont Stakes, the Blue Grass Stakes and the Yankee Handicap, had won $148,747 in 11 starts this year and wrapped another $69,700 around that bankroll as a result of today's triumph.

Trailing the first four across the finish line in the order named were the Milky Way Farm's Dogpatch, Valdina Farm's Rounder, Colonel E. R. Bradley's Bless Me, Mrs. E. H. Augustus' Trelawny and Hal Price Headley's Anticlimax. The original field of 11 was reduced by the withdrawal of Altern, owned by A. C. Ernst, Cleveland, and Bolus, a surprise nominee entered by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago.

Valdina Orphan's share of the purse was $10,000 while With Regards earned $5,000 and King's Abbey $2,500.

Shut Out was successful in eluding the jinx that trailed Johnstown, Bimelech and last year Whirlaway in the procession of defeated champions, in winning the classic, richest 3-year-old race of the year. It was the first time since Granville won in 1936 that a favorite had triumphed.

Arcaro piloted Shut Out to victory with extraordinary judgment and skill.

With Regards went winging from his No. 1 post position, but he could not draw clear until the field hit the backstretch. Going into the club house turn With Regards, on the rail, had a slight lead over Valdina Orphan, which in turn was almost lapped on Rounders and Bless Me, racing alongside.

Arcaro eased up Shut Out after the start and at the club house turn the champion had only Dogpatch and King's Abbey beaten. King's Abbey started last after stumbling slightly.

Down the stretch it was With Regards in front, with Valdina Orphan at his neck and Bless Me in third. Arcaro hogged the rail with Shut Out, slowly the son of Equipoise moved up. He passed one horse, then another . . . always on the rail.

With Regards set a hot pace—:45 4-5 for the half, 1:10 1-5 for the three quarters. Shut Out kept charging ahead with Valdina Orphan and With Regards in front of him.

Arcaro abruptly took Shut Out off the rail at the top of the stretch and sent him through a narrow opening between Valdina Orphan and With Regards.

Shut Out caught Valdina Orphan near the final eighth pole, and with Arcaro hand riding for all he was worth, the champion slowly drew out to victory . . . the first winning classic favorite since Granville.

Jockey Arcaro smilingly declared Shut Out was "all horse."

"The race was never in doubt at any time," Eddie said. "When he returned into the stretch, and I called upon Shut Out he took command at once. He is really a great race horse."

GIANTS PURCHASE MUNGO, SEND KOSLO TO MILLERS

NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—The New York Giants tonight purchased Van Lingle Mungo, right-handed pitcher formerly with Brooklyn but now with Minneapolis of the American Association, for cash and sent Dave Koslo, young lefthander, to Jersey City of the International loop, on option.

Mungo, who joined the Dodgers in 1931 and was sent to Toronto at the start of the 1941 season, has appeared in 21 games for the Millers this campaign, winning 10 and dropping three. The fast ball pitcher was purchased to bolster a pitching staff which was weakened when Cliff Melton, lanky southpaw and the club's best winner, was sidelined recently by bursitis.

THIS CUBAN APPARENTLY HAS LEARNED THE TRUTH

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 25.—(AP)—Red Jones, the Southern Association umpire, may have a heart—but where?

"Over in Chattanooga," he told Sports Editor Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner, "Roberto Ortiz tipped a foul that hit me right under the collarbone. While I was hopping around, trying to keep from falling on my face, Ortiz says: 'Where she hit you, huh?'

"I just pointed to the spot and kept hopping and he says, 'Right over the heart, huh?' I pop 'Naw, you dope, over here on your left side,' but Ortiz just shakes his head.

"'Nope,' he says, 'not an umpire's heart.'"

Farmer Mack To Battle Turk In Match Tuesday

Zuppe, Who Meets Curtis In Semi-Final, To Be Married In Ring

Farmer Mack, the Maine potato grower, will be called upon Tuesday night to try to stop the rampaging Turk, Ali Alliba, who has been roughing his way through all opposition at the Monroe wrestling arena for the past month. The match will be the main event on the night's card, but one of the feature attractions will be the wedding of Carl Zuppe, Minneapolis matman, to Miss Mildred Ballard of Memphis, Tenn.

Miss Ballard will come here Tuesday to meet her wrestling fiance, Promoter Gus Kallio announced, and the wedding will take place just before Zuppe goes into action in a handicap semi-final scrap with Jack Curtis, United States light heavyweight champion

The schedule for Tuesday, according to Promoter Kallio will open with some local talent in a one-fall amateur scrap to entertain early arrivals and the wedding march for Miss Ballard and Zuppe will start at 8:30 o'clock. A short intermission will follow the wedding in order to give Zuppe a chance to change into his working clothes and then the Curtis-Zuppe handicap will start.

The Ali Alliba-Farmer Mack main event will get underway about 9:30 o'clock.

The fierce Turk, boastful strongman who delights in tossing his opponents out of the ring, hasn't been beaten in the Monroe ring, hasn't been beaten here in which Rene LaBelle of Canada was declared winner when Ali Alliba was disqualified for being too rough. The Turk polished off LaBelle the following week and has disposed of all opponents since.

Farmer Mack has showed here only once this year, but the potato farmer proved himself a capable matman as well as a showman.

Considerable interest in centered on the Zuppe-Curtis scrap, not because Zuppe, the Minnesota turtleman, will be a bridegroom, but because of a boast by Zuppe that Curtis "can't beat me if I stick to defensive wrestling."

The battle this week will be a 45-minute time limit, one-fall affair and Curtis must win that one fall or be declared the loser.

Curtis recently defeated Zuppe in a match in which the Turtleman showed plenty of offense but it backfired and he lost the match. However, Zuppe plans a strict defensive job Tuesday and declares Curtis "can't beat me if he wrestles all night."

SCHROEDER AND WOOD WIN IN SEA BRIGHT TOURNEY

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 25.—(AP)—Young Ted Schroeder and veteran Sidney B. Wood continued their sweep in the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club's doubles round-robin today, but they had to make room at the top for a pair of youngsters who figure to give them plenty of trouble in tomorrow's windup matches.

Schroeder and Wood ran their victory string to four today, and right there with them were Billy Talbert of Cincinnati, O., and E. Victor Seixas of Philadelphia, Pa., who became the first in the novel tournament to score a pair of straight-set triumphs.

Talbert, ranked tenth nationally, and Seixas, the country's No. 2 junior player, polished off aging Francis X. Shields of New York and Young Billy Vogt of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-0, and then overpowered the Mexican championship tandem of Rolando and Armando Vega, 14-12, 6-3.

Meanwhile, Schroeder, the nation's fifth-ranked star and co-holder of the United States doubles title with Jack Kramer, had to play a terrific net game with stylist Wood to overcome Charles Mattman of Forest Hills, N. Y., and George Richards of Los Angeles, Calif., 5-7, 6-3, 6-2. They then downed George Ball of El Paso, Tex., and Dick Odman of Seattle, Wash., 8-6, 6-3. Schroeder lives in Glendale, Calif., and Wood in New York.

BOROWY SUBDUES DETROIT TO COP TENTH TRIUMPH

Joe Gordon Paces New York Attack With Two Singles And Homer

DETROIT, July 25.—(AP)—The New York Yankees pushed the Detroit Tigers into fifth place in the American league today, winning for the second straight day, 7-2, as Fordham Hank Borowy registered his tenth mound triumph against a single defeat.

Borowy scattered seven hits in hanging up his fourth straight win and his fourth of the year over the Tigers.

The Yankees pounded four Detroit hurlers for 14 blows and drove starter Virgil Trucks off the mound in the fourth frame when they scored their first four runs.

Joe Gordon, who paced the Yankee attack with two singles and a home run, led off the fourth with a single and moved to second when Phil Rizzuto reached base on an error, Rollie Hemsley singled for one run, Buddy Hassett hit through the middle for two more and Trucks gave way to Roy Henshaw.

After walking Joe DiMaggio purposely to fill the bases, Henshaw couldn't find the plate against Keller and walked in the fourth Yankee run.

Henshaw and Hal White escaped further damage but Jack Wilson took over in the ninth and was rapped for four hits and three runs.

WIRE SERVICE CANCELLED ON WEST COAST BOOKIES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(AP)—California horse race bookies, who have made more comebacks than a nine-lived cat, at last have been stymied for the duration, the state attorney general's office is convinced.

Western Union unconditionally has terminated their private leased wire service, the only racing information channel for the state's estimated 1,000 bookmakers.

Warren Olney, 3rd, chief criminal deputy for the attorney general, reported the cancellation last night.

Monroe All-Stars To Meet Greenville Flyers Today

Local Club Clashes With Service Team At Casino Park At 3:15 P. M.

Greenville vs. Monroe.

To old Cotton States League followers that sounds like promise of another rousing session between those keen rivals of the diamond, the Greenville Buckshots and Monroe White Sox of pre-war days, and fans who come out to Casino park this afternoon to see the Greenville Army Flyers in a battle with the Monroe All-Stars won't be far wrong.

Game time is 3:15 o'clock and all proceeds of the game, aside from expenses of the visiting players, will go to the U. S. O. recreation fund.

The local club will dress out in the former White Sox' traveling uniforms, and the Flyers' uniforms will closely resemble those of the Bucks, thus lending the air of old Cotton States competition.

The Greenville Flyers, composed of former professional, college and semi-pro talent, will be here about noon today. They have a record of 14 victories in 16 games this year.

Playing Manager Nolan Bryant of the All-Stars last night announced Tom Perry, former Cotton States ace of Monroe, would start on the mound for the locals. Ray Hoffman, another former White Sox, and Lonnie Rogers, the West Monroe boy, who played in the Evangeline League before its collapse, will be held in reserve should Perry need held.

The Monroe club has been working regularly almost all summer and are now boasting their best combination since they first began tackling service teams of this section.

While Perry, Hoffman and Rogers are listed as the choice pitchers for today, the All-Stars also have Truman "Wildman" Mayes and "Lefty" Counts, former Brown Paper mill hurlers of the Ouachita Valley League.

The infield setup for today will find Mayes at first base; Jim Keith, formerly of the Monroe White Sox, on second base; Eddie Bowles, whose previous connection was with the Monroe Pirates of the Cotton Boll League, at third base; and McRaynolds, another ex-Ouachita Valley Leaguer from up Sterlington way, at shortstop.

The starting outfield was named as "Shorty" Warren, ex-Cotton Boller, in center; Sam Canal, a product of Neville High school and Monroe Pirate performer, right field; and Ed Riddle, another ex-Pirate with considerable catching experience, in left field.

Manager Bryant, who performs with the All-States of the Twilight softball league on week days, will catch.

Listed as utility men today are Jim White and Brownlee, a pair of West Monroe boys; Max Wroten, veteran Cotton Boller, and Wallace Stark from out Splane Place way. Stark, who has worked at third base, has been nursing an arm injury but claims he will be ready for work today.

Big shots of the Greenville club are Private First Class John J. McCormick, the team's ace hurler and property of the New York Yankees when the army gets through with him, and Private Robert J. Pace, a .410 hitter up from Camp Hulen, Tex. McCormick has been named as starting pitcher today.

McCormick, who was to have joined the Yanks in spring training this year but got an army call instead, played with Amsterdam of the Canadian-American league last year and marked up a record of 16 victories against three defeats. The big righthander was named on the Southeast Army Air Forces Training center All-Star team which defeated the Acipko Pipers, national amateur champions, at Birmingham, Ala., recently.

Pace, leather-larruping first baseman, hails from Neosho, Mo. He batted .500 at Camp Hulen last year, and was the only member of the army All-Star team to play the whole game against the Pipers at Birmingham.

CAMP SHELBY NINE BEATS SEMI-PRO TEAM, 2 TO 1

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 25.—(AP)—Southpaw Buddy Swarthout bested Scrap Hatten in a tight pitcher's duel here today to give the 35th field artillery Lions of Camp Shelby a 2-1 victory over Hattiesburg in the semi-finals of the Mississippi state semi-pro baseball tournament.

The triumph sent the Lions into the championship round, with the Keesler Field Commandos of Biloxi as their opponents. Finals will be played here Sunday. Keesler is unbeaten in the double elimination tournament and needs only one victory to win the title. The 35th, already defeated once by the Commandos, must whip them twice tomorrow to gain the championship.

JUNIOR WELTER KAYOED TWICE ON SAME PROGRAM

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 25.—(AP)—Jimmy Maddux, Canadian junior welterweight and former Omaha boxer, was knocked out twice in the same night.

Maurice Woods, San Diego negro Welter, stopped him in two rounds. Then Maddux, leaving the ring, was angered by comments of bleacherites and swung on one.

It happened to be Kid Lester, San Diego middleweight, and down went Maddux again.

PIRATES HALT DODGERS' WIN STREAK, 4 TO 1

Gornicki, Winning First Victory Of Year, Holds Leaders

BROOKLYN, July 25.—(AP)—Two streak were ended today as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-1, for their first triumph in five outings and the first Dodger setback in an equal number of starts.

With the second place St. Louis Cardinals downing the Boston Braves, the reversal reduced Brooklyn's National league lead to six games.

Hank Gornicki, Pirate right-hander, outpitched and outlasted Curt Davis of the Dodgers to notch his first triumph of the season. He yielded only six hits and held the Dodgers scoreless after the first frame, when Pete Reiser celebrated his return to the lineup by singling home the lone tally after Arky Vaughan singled and went to second on a passed ball.

Davis didn't allow a hit until the fourth, when Elbie Fletcher doubled with two away. Vince DiMaggio followed with his 11th home run to put the Bucs ahead to stay.

In the sixth, Davis yielded the other two Pirate runs on a single by Maurice Van Robays, a triple by Fletcher and a single by Frank Gustine, which drove the Dodger starter to the showers with his fifth defeat against nine wins.

ZALE AND ABRAMS LIKELY TO BE REMATCHED IN BOUT

CHICAGO, July 25.—(AP)—Sheldon Clark, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, said today plans were being considered for a title rematch between Tony Zale, middleweight champion, and Georgie Abrams, whom he defeated for the crown eight months ago.

The bout, Clark said, would be held in Chicago, probably in September, if plans go through. Proceeds would go to the USO. Both fighters now are in the navy.

OLD BOXER FORGETS TO DUCK IN TRAFFIC MELEE

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—(AP)—George Decker, 60, boxing coach at the University of Pennsylvania for more than 20 years, almost walked into the big punch last night.

He was struck by a car at a street corner and suffered severe leg injuries. Groggy but not out, the old featherweight grinned up at investigating police.

"Don't arrest that boy," he said. "The light was against me—and I forgot to duck."

NELSON POSTS 65 TO LEAD TOURNEY

course and with a 34 for the first nine holes this afternoon. He was a stroke under par for the three holes of the back nine in the afternoon and over 30 holes was seven under par.

The open tournament was held up for an hour in the morning when Joe Kirkwood, the trick-shot artist, refused to be "dressed up like a Christmas tree" and would not allow an identification number be pinned on the back of his pants.

President George S. May of the Tam O'Shanter club disqualified him, and threatened to disqualify any player who did not appear on the first tee with a number on his back. Veteran Tommy Armour, insisting that no one could tell him what to wear, did not tee off.

In the meantime, a group of the country's leading stars, including Nelson, met with Fred Corcoran, P. G. A. tournament manager, with May in his private office. After the crowd around the first tee began to applaud for some action, the meeting broke up and the pros began going out with numbers on.

Angrily declaring that he wouldn't be a "circus horse" for anybody, Kirkwood threatened to take the matter up with his lawyer. He had a total of 144 strokes for the first two rounds and was in excellent position, he said, to win "important money."

May, just as angry as Kirkwood, threatened to disqualify any player who did not appear on the first tee with his number on his back. The placard is not large—only about six inches by four—but many of the professionals were upset at being forced to wear it. Henry Picard did not have his on when he left the first tee, but he was understood later to have pinned it on.

May declared he had a "written agreement" with the Professional Golfers Association that all players would wear numbers, but this was denied by P. G. A. officials. They said it was an "oral agreement" that the players could wear the numbers if they wished to.

Tommy Armour, former American, and British open champion, announced flatly that he would withdraw from the tournament if they tried to force him to wear a number. Tommy had a total of 146 for two rounds.

"Nobody can tell me what to wear," said the silver Scot. "I shall be an interested spectator from here on."

Most of the professionals who did tee off had the numbers pointedly pinned to the back of their trousers.

JOSEPH LEE'S DAY OBSERVED

Playgrounds Have Athletic Events On Leader's Birthday

Joseph Lee day was appropriately observed by all municipal playgrounds at Barkdull Faulk school campus, Friday. This was the anniversary of the birth of Lee, who is called the daddy of the playground movement in the country.

The 50-yard dash was won by Bobby Phillips with Bobby Holmes in in second place.

DO AS I SAY AND NOT AS I DO SEEMS TO BE MORAL

ATLANTA, July 25.—(AP)—It'll be a cold day in July when Manager Paul Richards shows the Atlanta Crackers how to handle big Bill Seinsoth, the New Orleans pitcher.

"I bawled out my boys for getting up there and beating little rollers into the ground, or lifting little foul flies," says Richards, with a chuckle. "So I told them, 'give me a bat and I'll guarantee you I'll hit the fence with that dipsi-do ball.'

"So what do I do? I get up there as a pinch-hitter with three on and one out and end the game by hitting into a double play—a weak little old grounder to second base. So I'm a Seinsoth convert."

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL and BUILDING DIGEST

MASSEY AND PARNELL OPENED THEIR POPULAR SERVICE FIRM IN 1931

Satisfied Customers Are Responsible For Growth

Eleven years ago—back in the days when the late "depression" was just getting in full swing, P. E. Massey and Ben S. Parnell formed a business partnership after taking over the old Walters & Parnell Radio Service. They styled the new firm Massey Service and through these 11 years it has developed into one of the Twin Cities' most substantial institutions.

Located at 520 Jackson, and rendering, in addition to efficient automotive service and repair, Massey Service has one of the city's best equipped and manned radio repair shops.

Seven years ago, when the growth of business demanded longer hours, Messrs. Massey and Parnell decided to remain open 24 hours daily. This policy of continuous service has remained in effect to the present day and the motorist who patronizes that firm is assured of instant, courteous service any hour, day or night.

On March 23, of this year, Mr. Parnell, one of the city's best radio technicians, went into government service, leaving Mr. Massey in full control of the business. However, Mr. Massey's leaving did not in any way lower the efficiency of the radio service department. A trained personnel is on the job, insuring radio owners the best in repairs and service.

The scope of activity of the Massey Service covers a much larger field than that served by the usual service firm. Massey Service is local distributors of the Kelvinator refrigerator and Zenith and Motorola radios. Goodrich tires, tubes and batteries, together with a complete line of accessories, are also carried. Texaco products are sold in the firm's station.

Complete automotive service is offered, and the firm has a liberal, easy pay plan for repairs. The car owner is given an estimate on the work needed, the work is done and then the payment arranged over a long period for the convenience of the customer.

In January, 1941, when the firm's business continued its growth and a second place was needed in West Monroe, the Massey Service opened a store there under the name of Economy Auto Supply, with J. T. Eubank, a partner in the firm, in charge. Assisting him are Herman Williams, as credit manager, and Miller Williams, in the service department.

Assisting in operating the Monroe store are Walter K. Anders, office and credit manager; George Wimbish, service manager, radio and budget department; Bill Johnson, collections; Claude Barnes, radio technician, and five colored boys in the service station.

Likenesses of living presidents and living ex-presidents of the United States are not used on the country's postage stamps.

PARISH FARMERS GET FSA LANDS

Approval Given To Loans For Purchase Of Small Tracts

Approval of four Ouachita parish families for loans to buy family-sized farms under the tenant purchase program of the Farm Security administration has been announced by Prentiss G. Boyd, parish FSA supervisor.

Bids for the construction of their barns and farm outbuildings will be opened August 4 at the FSA office in Monroe. Construction of new houses will be deferred for the duration of the war, in accordance with an order from the War Production board, which limits construction of new residences to $500, Mr. Boyd said.

Those buying farms are: H. T. Crowell, D. D. Crumpler, Mack McMullen, and Lonzo Wright. Loans for the purchase of the farms and construction of the buildings were made under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant act, and are repayable over a period of 40 years at 3 per cent interest.

Applications for the loans were approved by the Ouachita parish tenant purchase committee, composed of Robin N. Johnson, Henry H. Hinkle, and Norman B. Golson.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Real estate transfers recorded yesterday at the office of the clerk of court of Ouachita parish were:

The Peoples Homestead and Savings Association sold to Joe Earl Plemmons and Lena Dell Plemmons the west half of lots 7 and 8, square 9, T. E. Flournoy's third addition to West Monroe for $2,325.

Elton Guy Courtney sold to Embry A. Adams lot 3, Eby's Natchitoches road subdivision for $100 and other considerations.

MASSEY HAS GIVEN CONTINUOUS SERVICE FOR YEARS

Established 11 years ago, the Massey Service, 520 Jackson, is rendering efficient, 24-hour service to a large Twin City clientele.

PLANE CRASHES, PILOT UNINJURED

A west-bound single engine army plane was brought down in an emergency landing three miles from highway 80 near Start, La., Friday night.

The plane was piloted by Lieutenant Carter, Nashville, Tenn., and was being flown from Jackson, Miss., to Shreveport. In the forced descent, the plane was badly damaged but the pilot escaped serious injury.

The cause of the accident will not be officially known until a formal investigation has been made by a regularly constituted army board.

PING PONG TABLES BEING REQUIRED

As an unusually large number of surgical dressings are required by the Red Cross chapter here, there is a need for many ping pong tables to be utilized as work tables in this connection, states Mrs. W. C. Holstein, executive secretary of the Ouachita parish chapter.

She asks that any who have such tables loan their use for a few days. They can contact the Red Cross office by phone here, she said.

All trees are dead inside, no matter how much alive they appear. Only a thin outer layer is composed of living cells.

DUCO PAINTS FEATURED BY KEYSTONE COMPANY

Monroe and West Monroe, as a result of the government's big navigation field and other defense projects, will become the new home of thousands of military men, defense workers and their families.

Local home owners are being urged to aid in relieving the acute housing problem through the creation of apartments for these newcomers into our midst.

The Keystone Paint & Decorating Company, 109 North Grand, local distributors for Duco paint products, invite property owners to consider Duco products when they plan their redecorating and remodeling.

Duco is a trade name known in every nook and corner of the country, and Manager Davis of the Keystone firm, points out that the purchaser of Duco products is assured of the finest in paint quality.

Mr. Davis invites you to visit his store and consult with him on your plans.

LIVESTOCK AUCTION IS AIDING STOCK RAISERS

With the federal government calling on all livestock producers to provide more meat for our nation's constantly-expanding needs, Northeast Louisiana farmers are naturally interested in securing the best possible market for their stock.

The Livestock Auction, Delhi, under the management of W. P. Martin, well known Louisiana stockman, gives stock raisers one of the best markets in the state.

Mules, cattle, hogs and sheep, are offered in the weekly auctions, which attract buyers from over a wide area. Stockmen, bringing their animals to the livestock auction are assured of top prices, according to Mr. Martin. Mr. Martin invites stockmen to visit his auctions, see how they are handled and become a beneficiary of the splendid service he is rendering in providing Louisiana farmers a good market.

RUSSIANS EXACT HEAVY NAZI TOLL

is only 45 miles from Stalingrad, on the Volga.

The broadening river, running red with blood, was crossed twice near Tsimlanskaya, 120 miles upstream from Rostov. The first crossing apparently was eliminated.

The second push supported by intense aviation artillery put small units across the Don within 35 miles of the last remaining railways linking Stalingrad to the Caucasus and its treasures. Dispatches said these adventurous units were being dealt with and were isolated but that German pressure was increasing. The Germans, it was said, were summoning all their might to span the river in force.

The critical position of Marshal Timoshenko's forces was pointed up by the army newspaper Red Star which printed Lenin's old admonition:

"Fight to the last drop of blood, comrades, keep on for each inch of land. Be firm until the end."

GERMAN WAR MACHINE HEADS FOR STALINGRAD

By Richard MacMurray
(Associated Press War Editor)

The steel of the mighty German military machine pressed into Rostov and toward Stalingrad and the Caucasus last night, but everywhere the outgunned Russians were slugging the invader and exacting a great toll for their losses.

Rostov's fortifications were breached in sectors. A tentative German bridgehead was established on the lower Don near Tsimlyansk, 120 miles upstream from Rostov. The Germans reached the middle Don and conceivably could be within 45 miles of Stalingrad. The Reds still were attacking and gaining at Voronezh.

The Russian position was of such peril that the army newspaper Red Star went back to the words of Lenin, to admonish the tired and battered Russian army:

"Fight to the last drop of blood, comrades. Keep on for every inch of land. Be firm until the end."

On the Egyptian front, United States bombers were disclosed to have heavily damaged Axis ports and shipping at Tobruk, Bengasi and Suda Bay in Crete in seven raids. The R. A. F. added the destruction of more than 20 grounded Axis planes at El Daba while the land fighting dwindled to artillery exchanges and patrolling 80 miles west of Alexandria.

The balance of power was so delicate that London sources said the arrival of a single convoy—Axis or British—could swing the outcome. That an Allied ship train might be approaching was evidenced by the Italian claim to have sunk a loaded troop transport in the eastern Mediterranean.

Across the world, Allied fliers attacked ceaselessly the latest fruit of Japanese conquest—toeholds on New Guinea at Buna and Gona. Experts were inclined to view that the landing on the great island above Australia was a Nipponese attempt to clinch control of the sea to the Solomon islands, rather than another threat to the northrnmost Allied base of Port Moresby.

Remembering the amazing Japanese campaign down Malaya and into Singapore, however, they did not rule out the possibility that the foe might cut his way through the jungle-clad mountains to attack the base, 110 miles away.

United States submarines kept nibbling at Japanese naval strength and shipping, sinking a modern destroyer, a tanker and three cargo ships. Another freighter was damaged and believed sunk.

The plight of Russia was uppermost in the mind of Britain, where the Communists swelled the demand for a diversionary second front with a pressure campaign which will swell today into a huge demonstration in Trafalgar Square.

Eduard Benes, president of Czecho-Slovakia and better informed than most, added his voice to pleas for a second front. He declared that if the Russians hold, the Germans would be exhausted by spring. He said he thought the Russians would survive and that Hitler's lacking a decisive victory, would offer by October 15 peace terms which Benes predicted would be rejected.

Long before then, in fact, within six or seven weeks, the Russian front will be virtually immobilized by bottomless mud of the fall rains. Mud first stopped Hitler last winter. By October 15, the snows will be flying and the frost will be on the ground and all Germany mortally dreads and fears another winter in the vast German hinterland.

Official German accounts said Novocherkassk, 20 miles northeast of Rostov, was captured by storm and that a huge fight was in progress along the Don east and west of the city. The communique seemed to give the lie to the official German claim Friday that Rostov had fallen. Russian and British sources insisted the city still stood although the British said fighting might be in progress in the suburbs.

American planes were fighting for Russia, apparently with Soviet pilots at the controls. The Russian command spoke ominously of German tank, motor and infantry superiority at Rostov and acknowledged that some Russian positions were taken.

The Don was crossed twice near Tsimlyansk, but the first adventurers were wiped out and the second "were being dealt with." Here again, the Russian communique was foreboding because it talked of defensive battles for a crossing of the Don.

The Russians were the first to admit that the middle Don was reached. The Germans said only that its troops were approaching the great elbow which lies closest to Stalingrad—astride the Volga through which pass Allied supplies from the Persian gulf.

The Germans plainly were driving for the Caucasian oil. Equally important, they were striving mightily to cut the Red army in two, sever the supply line and isolate the Caucasus from the rest of Russia.

At Tsimlyansk, the Germans were building a great force to try to cross the river and cut the railway 35 miles to the south, the last remaining steel link from Stalingrad to the Caucasus.

All Russian dispatches reported constantly that the Red army was making tremendous blows of attrition, but Hitler apparently was willing to pay the staggering cost in lives for the oil. He still was 280 miles from the nearest derricks, and about 800 miles from the great pools of Baku.

WAR PRODUCTION ALMOST TRIPLED

output must be stepped up sharply because of a lag in the early phases of the program.

4. "Many more" tanks were built in the first six months than during all of last year.

5. Production of machine tools, presses and other metal-working machinery was valued at $649,800,000, an increase of 98 per cent over the first six months of 1941, or 77 per cent of last year's entire production.

6. A great expansion in salvage operations must be carried out to offset expected shortages in materials.

"Production is going well on the whole—in some categories, very well; in others, it is lagging somewhat," Nelson said. "Industry, labor and government are generally doing a good job of production, but too much boasting about production progress is altogether premature. The biggest part of the job is still ahead. Serious raw materials shortages are looming up ahead. Many bottlenecks are being broken, but some new ones are forming.

"The government is working hard at these problems, yet the country must not get the impression that the battle of production is won, and that we can now stand at ease. The battle will not be won until the war is over."

known today, a 5,000-ton merchantman under destroyer escort received a direct hit and a Junkers-88 was shot down into the sea.

On Friday British torpedo bombers with a fighter escort attacked a 7,000-ton ship carrying a heavy and apparently valuable cargo, and when last seen the ship, which had been escorted by two destroyers and smaller craft, was being towed home by two tugs.

There was little news of land fighting in the desert through yesterday, although there were the usual artillery exchanges and patrol actions.

SUIT IS FILED TO INVALIDATE VETO

general fund, appropriated to the hospital in the general appropriation bill, for other purposes.

The petition urges in the alternative if the governor's veto is not declared illegal, that the appropriation bill itself be declared unconstitutional.

The suit alleges that the governor's veto of the $8,100,000 biennial appropriation to the institution is illegal, null and void because it impairs the obligation of the state, and violates the right of contract.

The petition points out that $4,500,000 bond issue was sold to erect the hospital, one of the world's largest, in 1938 and that $800,000 annually is dedicated to the retirement of these bonds from the proceeds of the corporation franchise tax.

In vetoing the institution's appropriation, the governor vetoed this amount in violation of not only the state constitution but the federal constitution, both of which guarantee rights of contract, the petition charges.

Danziger, former member of the board of administrators of the hospital, holds two $1,000 bonds, one of which is due on October 15, 1950, and the other August 1, 1951, the petition alleges and should the governor's veto stand, his contract would be impaired.

The petition further points out that the $3,330,460 and $3,150,216 appropriated out of the general fund for each of the two fiscal years to the hospital in addition to the $800,000 annually out of the corporation franchise tax are "inseparable and indivisible."

Further allegations are that the governor should have taken action on the appropriation bill before the legislature finally adjourned to give them an opportunity to repass items he may have vetoed, but instead "illegally" held it up until three days after sine die adjournment before vetoing the charity hospital appropriation.

Alternatively the petition alleges that the appropriation bill itself was unconstitutional since it was introduced by title only before the deadline for introduction of bills and that when the body of the measure was introduced after the deadline as amendments, the house did not by two-third vote approve its introduction as an emergency.

It is also charged that the house did not adopt 18 floor amendments to the bill and therefore the governor did not act on the same bill passed by the two houses.

Named as defendants in the suit are state budget officer James I. Smith, finance director Martin Close, the board of finance, state auditory L. B. Baynard, state treasurer A. P. Tugwell, Governor Jones, institutions director Claude Harrison, the board of institutions and the board of administrators of the New Orleans charity hospital.

THREE SABOTEURS MAY BE IN U. S.

intelligence section, an instructor in the Nazi sabotage school near Berlin, and for some years active in German organizations and publications at New York, Chicago, Cincinnati and Detroit.

Rheinhold Rudolf Barth, 35, an intelligence officer in the German army and an instructor at the sabotage school, specializing in wrecking railroads.

Joseph Schmidt, 33 or 34, a former farmer, hunter and trapper in Canada, who fled to Mexico when Canada went to war in 1939. He was at Lorient when the eight men on trial left by submarine.

The alarm concerning these men went out as the seventh of the eight men on trial for their lives took the witness stand in a secret trial before seven generals. The hearing recessed until Monday after a three and one-half hour session. The prisoner on the stand at adjournment presumably will resume his testimony Monday, since he was not cross-examined today.

The eight standing trial, all German-born former residents of the United States, are alleged to have been trained at the sabotage school near Berlin in prepartion for their submarine trip across the Atlantic. They brought with them, the FBI announced, enough explosives and incendiaries, along with various kinds of fuses and detonating devices, to provide for a two-year campaign of destruction among America's booming war plants.

TWO DENY LACK OF STEEL EXISTS

"faulty inventory control," meaning, they explained, that excessive quantities of steel had been allocated to some yards at the expense of others.

"It now appears," they said, "that the old standard yards, some of them subsidiaries of the old steel trust, had inventories way out of proportion to their normal needs. If this steel had been properly allocated and distributed, there would have been sufficient steel for the entire shipbuilding program in the United States, both naval and maritime vessels, including those at the Higgins yards."

Boykin said there were reports that the steel on hand in some yards was sufficient to supply the needs of those yards for six months in advance, while normally such yards are supplied for only a two-month future period.

In connection with the reference to "old, standard yards," Andrew J. Higgins, the head of the Higgins corporation, has charged the cancellation was brought about by shipbuilders who feared postwar competition from his mass-production yard.

He asked for an opportunity to cross-examine Admiral Land and his staff, and said he would appear Tuesday before the senate defense investigating committee.

He had not, he said, given up hope of having his contract reinstated.

KEEP LETTERS TO SOLDIERS CHEERFUL

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—Keep your letters to American fighting men cheerful!

That advice came today from the Red Cross which said its workers found that "too many times the folks at home pour forth petty family problems in letters to their boys who are away in camp or fighting at the front."

"The result in many cases," it added, "is the demoralization of a brave soldier."

GEORGE EXPECTS NEW PROPOSALS

creases of $356,000,000 in individual income taxes and $758,000,000 in corporation taxes over the amounts in the house bill.

The committee has not yet received from the treasury specific tables setting out proposed increases in income tax rates. However, George said it was understood that Morgenthau's proposal would call for an increase to 50 per cent in the house-approved rate of 45 per cent for combined normal and surtax levies on corporation income.

George and some other members already have said the 45 per cent rate was too steep.

Senators Taft, Republican, Ohio, and Clark, Democrat, Missouri, complained that the 5 per cent payroll deduction—applicable to all income above certain basic exemptions—woud in effect require tax payments of 24 per cent of net income in 1943 by low-bracket individuals.

(The 5 per cent deduction, beginning next January 1, would apply against taxes falling due March 15, 1944. At the same time they were subject to it, individuals would be paying taxes on 1942 income at the rate of 19 per cent in the lowest brackets subject to normal and surtaxes.)

The outspoken opposition to this levy made it appear extremely doubtful that favorable action could be obtained on any proposal to translate it into an additional and separate tax.

Thus, from the viewpoint expressed by George, any move to bring in revenues over and above the total of the house bill appeared to center on the controversial question of imposing a sales tax.

Morgenthau reiterated to the committee his opposition to such a tax. He reviewed, however, his original recommendations for excise tax increases, involving $437,000,000 more revenue than the house voted to obtain in this classification.

there is small prospect that Hitler can force her to her knees or do more than prolong the war indefinitely if he succeeds in throwing Russian armies back eastward of a Volga-Don-Moscow-Leningrad line from the Caspian to the Baltic, which seems his purpose.

Not only Russian ability but Russian will to fight on against all odds have been proved in blood, German as well as Russian, in those twelve months. It is just about a year ago that President Roosevelt's emissary, Harry Hopkins, traveled from London to Russia by air. Just what he learned then of Russian determination never to yield to the Axis or of Russian ultimate resources for war was not revealed.

Yet the information he brought back from Moscow must have played a vital part in the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences that produced the Atlantic Charter and pledged American as well as British help to Russia and all other nations which defied the Axis. It must have included factual assurances, now fulfilled, that Russia both could and would survive through another year.

Japanese entry into the struggle that ill-fated Sunday morning in December greatly changed the war picture in Axis favor. It definitely cramped both British and American immediate means of aiding Russia or massing for attack against Germany.

But it also set the wheels of American war industries whirling at an all-out production pace still gaining momentum. It converted the Atlantic Charter into the foundation stone of a United Nations war fellowship of vaster latent power than any previous international combination.

The time will come, it must come, for Hitler as it came for the Kaiser when the limit of his powers of aggression has been reached while that of his aroused foes still climbs month by month, day by day. There is evidence of desperation in the nature of his farspread attack on Russia. He is pouring out German blood in a frantic effort to attain some objective before the doom he has challenged can overtake him.

Whether that objective is oil, in the Caucasus, reflecting his own dire and increasing oil needs, or a shorter Baltic-Caspian front across Russia to conserve his man and airpower against certainly coming Anglo-American assaults from the west is not clear.

It may soon be revealed on the lower Don. Prompt expansion of his offensive into the Caucasus itself despite the risks of ever extending communication lines would indicate Hitler is gambling on reaching oil before winter, that his need is desperate.

CUTS INTO CHEESE, STOPS BOMB SCARE

LOGAN, W. Va., July 25.—(AP)—A state police sergeant cut into a Wisconsin cheese today and dissipated a bomb scare.

Members of a fishing party were cutting the cheese when their knife struck a metallic object.

One of them, Reese Browning, who is home on leave from the navy, rushed the cheese to the office of Magistrate S. J. Justice at Man, W. Va., and Police Sergeant W. E. Demoss of the Logan detachment was summoned.

Wielding his knife gingerly, Demoss laid open the cheese and revealed a dairy thermometer.

any "floating vessel" unless such person is carrying an identification card issued by or approved by the coast guard.

The provisions do not apply to bonifide railroad employes engaged in work and carrying visual identification badges issued by their employes.

Similar provisions apply to trucks and other vehicles, which are permitted to stop in such areas only long enough to load or unload cargo or passengers.

Ships and other "floating vessels" mooring in such areas overnight must be "brilliantly lighted," and smoking or permitting any sort of open flame is strictly prohibited except in areas specifically designated for that purpose.

Approaches to such areas must not be blocked for longer than five minutes, even by freight cars. No "package, parcel or bundle" may be carried within 100 feet of such an area unless it has been examined and passed by the properly designated officer. Cameras, binoculars and similar instruments must not be carried within 400 feet of such areas.

The bill further makes it unlawful to "construct a residence, home, camp, shack or to beach a houseboat or dwell on the batture, bank or shores" of any navigable waters in the state, and anyone so residing may be given a five-day notice to vacate.

ambassador, entertained on an average of five guests a day throughout the long voyage.

Tears flowed only once. Entering the narrows of this harbor, some far-sighted passengers yelled, "Hey, there's a ship flying the American flag."

She was a rusty, salt-encrusted tanker, but the Stars and Stripes were flying at her masthead.

Her whistle saluted as our ship approached. Handkerchiefs fluttered as some returned the greeting. And many dabbed their eyes at the sight of the national emblem.

Typical of the fortitude of all was the behavior of James Theron Ward who one day will have a complicated passport.

James was born of American parents. The ship was Japanese technically under Swiss jurisdiction and he was delivered during a howling storm in the middle of the Indian ocean.

None of the difficulties brought any but the usual wails from young Mr. Ward. Like his compatriots he's no cry baby. He can take it.

ROOSEVELT AND FARLEY OPPOSED

ed aboard the Mead bandwagon, along with the O'Connell family's powerful Albany organization and other districts. The Bronx, led by National Democratic Chairman Edward J. Flynn, quickly followed President Roosevelt's lead.

Behind the scenes of the bitter delegate snatching duel are hints that national patronage might finally settle the issue. Mead, with presidential backing, has somewhat more to offer than does Farley.

But there are those who hold that Mead and Bennett will batter one another to a standstill and that a third man will emerge. If that happens, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, Gov Lehman's personal nominee, well may be the compromise candidate.

One thing political observers see as certain is that President Roosevelt is determined that the nominee will not be Farley's man, which would allow the Democratic state chairman to control the state during the 1944 presidential year.

From Niagara Falls to the Atlantic, from the Canadian border to Coney Island, the Empire state Democrats this week-end are split as wide open as the Grand Canyon. For the first time in many years, if the split continues, there seems to be a chance that the Republican party will place a man in the governor's mansion.

That's why Democratic chieftains sought avidly for a solution to the Farley-Roosevelt feud.

That's why, as the Democratic split grows wider and wider, so, too, do the grins of the Republican leaders.

had a 2 to 1 lead over Ernest Goens, Tyler attorney. The vote stood at 1,034 to 524. Goens, World war veteran, had charged Beckworth, 28, with failing to keep a campaign promise to join the armed services if he voted for a declaration of war. Beckworth flew home two days before the election. He said President Roosevelt had advised the army and navy not to accept congressional enlistees.

In the plains country, Representative Eugene Worley, serving in the United States navy, was comfortably ahead of Lynn Miller, 1,892 to 335.

Eleven of the Texas delegation of 21 were not opposed.

NINE HONORED IN SUB SINKING

Lieutenant C. Turner, bombardier, Red Bud, Ky.; Sergeant I. C. Robertson, engineer, Pontiac, Mich.; Private U. O. McMahon, engineer-gunner, Providence, R. I.; Private First Class L. D. Kirkpatrick, radio operator, Mountain Home, Ark.; Private J. N. Thomas, radio-gunner, Memban, N. C.; Private W. B. Elliot, gunner, Shelbyville, Ind.

The letters of commendation were signed by Major General Follett Bradley, commanding general, first air force, Brig. Gen. C. H. Nash, commander third air force, and Brig. Gen. S. M. Connell, commanding general of the third bomber command.

A terse account of the sinking was contained in General Bradley's letter of commendation:

"On June 21 the pilot and crew of the B-24 of your command conducted a mission so skillfully and effectively as to cause the destruction of an enemy submarine. At 5:36 p.m., while on a patrol mission, they sighted a submarine on the surface, made a run for the attack immediately, during which time the submarine made a crash dive from a stationary position. While passing over the U-boat from bow to stern, they released two 325-pound depth charges as the conning tower went below the surface. One depth charge was dropped about 100 feet short and the other about 100 feet over the target. The rear gunner reported that immediately after the depth charges exploded, the U-boat was thrown from the water and broke into bits. Oil gushed to the surface and spread rapidly over a large area."

MARKETS

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—Stocks, irregular; rails in moderate demand. Bonds, mixed; some rails improve. Cotton, steady; mill buying outweights liquidation and hedging.

CHICAGO—Closed 1 1-8 to 1 3-8 higher. Corn, finished slightly higher. Hogs, nominally steady; quotable top, $14.90. Cattle, nominally steady.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 25.—(AP)—Rails today continued to provide the principal recovery steam for the stock market and even these exhibited scant tendencies toward speed.

Slightly irregular shifts appeared at the opening and persisted to the close. Transfers for the two hours were around 100,000 shares, another of the lowest turnovers in two years.

Commodities rallied. Bonds were narrowly uneven.

A large assortment of curb stocks finished at Friday's last quotations.

WILLIAM CURL'S FUNERAL HELD

Richland Parish Farmer Was Victim Of Tractor Accident

The funeral of William Curl, 33, Richland parish farmer who was fatally injured early Friday afternoon when pinned beneath a runaway farm tractor after the machine had turned over three times, was held in Smith cemetery Saturday at 3 p.m. with Ina Eden, pastor of the Church of God, Bawcomville, officiating. Arrangements were in charge of the Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mr. Curl leaves his wife and seven children. Ages of the children vary from four months to 14 years.

The accident occurred on the Carl Earl plantation near Clear Lake, where Curl was employed. Curl died from internal injuries sustained together with a crushed chest and punctured lung, according to Coroner J. T. French, who investigated the case.

Mrs. Curl stated that her husband was plowing up "turn rows" when the tractor hit a stretch of loose gravel and went out of control.

The man's death occurred while he was being brought to a Monroe hospital in an ambulance.

SOLID TRAINS OF OIL GO EASTWARD

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(AP)—To speed oil to the East, solid 60-car tank trains are now moving from southwestern oil fields to one-point eastern destinations, the office of defense transportation disclosed today.

Under the plan, loaded tank cars are assembled at terminals close to producing centers in Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Oklahoma. They then are switched into trains of 60 and moved in a solid block to a destination nearest the ultimate consumers without terminal switching en route.

ODT officials said the system would materially reduce time lost in turnaround of tank car equipment, thereby making more cars available for oil hauling.

The said oil trains from Mississippi and Louisiana fields would be able to reach New Jersey destinations in four days, and New England points in five days. Trains from Texas and Oklahoma should cover the distance to New Jersey points in five days, and New England in six.

Under normal railroad practice, a 60-car oil train would be subject to switching at various terminals en route because of the different destinations of the cars. In the past, blocks of 20 or 30 tank cars often were moved eastward from some intermediate point as part of a train of miscellaneous freight.

MIKE SMITH SHOWS MUCH IMPROVEMENT

Although his condition was still considered serious, attending physicians at King's hospital in Winnsboro last night said Mike Smith of Monroe, injured in an automobile accident Wednesday, had experienced a "splendid afternoon" yesterday.

Smith, an employe of McCain-Richards, Inc., of Monroe, who was hurt when an automobile in which he was riding struck a concrete bridge, was conscious yesterday and "laughed and joked" with friends and relatives.

He was said to have suffered lacerations about the body and fractures of two or three ribs but loss of blood and shock was said to have resulted in his serious condition.

GASOLINE RATIONING IS AFFECTING BEARS

GATLINBURG, Tenn., July 25.—(AP)—This gasoline rationing is affecting the bears too.

Officials have observed that more and more bears are appearing along highways on the Tennessee side of the Great Smoky Mountains National park this year, rather than on the North Carolina side, where gasoline is rationed.

The bears are attracted to the highways by picnic leavings and food supplied by tourists. The handout food is more plentiful on the Tennessee side.

BUDDY QUARTET IN AIR CORPS

Four Lifelong Friends Join U. S. Forces At Same Time Here

Four fine, patriotic Sicily Island youths trooped into Sergeant McNemar's office in the Monroe postoffice building last Tuesday afternoon, hot and tired, and informed him that they were ready to go. He talked to them informally for several minutes and then inquired as to which branch of the service they would like to enlist for, at which point one of the young men spoke up and said, "Well, Sergeant, down at Sicily Island the folks all say that you are an honest man and that you stick to your word and that you do everything possible to please the people who come to your office, so we are going to leave it up to you, big boy."

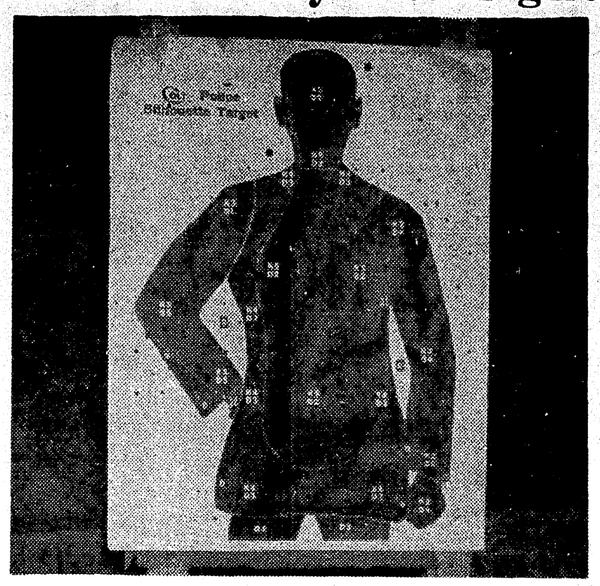
The recruiter quickly sized each of them up and said that the air forces would be indeed glad to have them, and that he believed each of them would be a decided asset to the air forces and to apply for that branch of the service when they arrived at the reception center at Camp Beauregard.

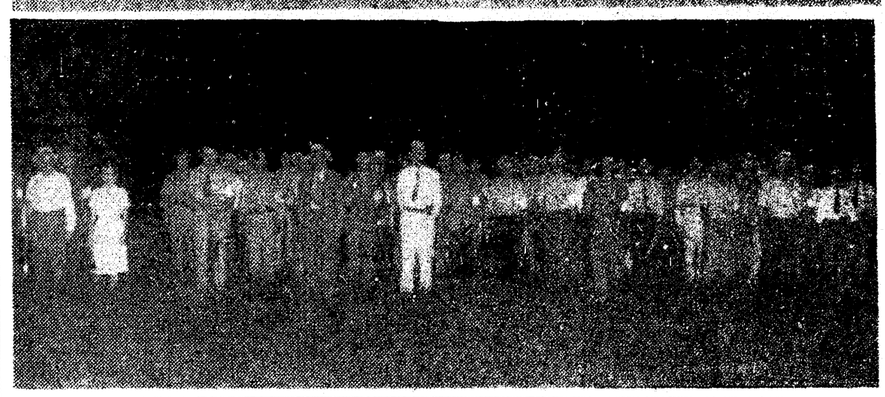
The four young men mentioned are: Charles David Bourke, 20, son of Mrs. Ida Bourke, who was so anxious to enlist that he forgot to get his mother's written consent, but a long-distance telephone call from McNemar soon remedied that situation, and within an hour he had her telegraphic consent; Charles Clinton Cloy, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Horace Cloy; William Harmon Randall, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calvin Randall; and Edsel Girard Thurman, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rastus Lee Thurman. All four of these splendid young fellows were born and reared at Sicily Island, attended the same schools and churches, and have been lifelong pals and friends, and now that they had reached young manhood, they each decided that they wanted to continue their close companionship and enlist together in the same branch of the service.

At noon on Thursday, these four boys were back to see Sergeant McNemar, with their pre-enlistment papers completed, their releases from the draft board, and were ready to set out on the great adventure of their lives.

The sergeant said later that he knew the people of Sicily Island, who had seen these boys grow up into the peak of their splendid young manhood, are indeed proud of them, and that he feels that each of them will go a long way in the army.

By The Light Of The Silvery Moon . . .





And, of course, with flashlights to supplement the moonlight, auxiliary police gathered at the police target range Wednesday for their first night shooting practice. The picture above shows the silhouette target just after the shooting began. Later on it was almost one big hole.

In the upper right corner, the man hefting that big gun is Auxiliary Police Sergeant C. L. Pohl who scored a direct hit on the target 40 yards away. In the foreground is W. B. Mask, Sr. On both the guns may be seen the flashlights that all the men had attached to their guns.

Auxiliary Police Do Some Moonlight Target Practice

Sixty Members Respond To First Surprise Call During Course

By Monica Lilles

With slow church music from a nearby building forming a musical background, 60 Monroe auxiliary police, summoned to the near-dusk of the Central Grammar school grounds by a surprise call a few minutes earlier, inspected guns and flashlights, fastened on armbands and speculated as to the reason for their gathering.

"Hey, where're we going?" buzzed through the curious crowd.

Someone caught sight of the reporter and photographer and mourned, "We're gonna have our pictures taken for the paper—and me on my way to a chicken barbecue!"

Then, "Fall in!" barked Chief of Police Frank Reitzell.

"You're going out to the police target range to do your first flashlight shooting," he explained. "Get in your cars and follow Mr. Fox (John Fox, coordinator of the auxiliary police) out to the range."

Ten minutes later the orderly procession was being directed into symmetrical football-game-parking-order by young Boy Scout Larry Fox on the shooting range, where 22 West Monroe auxiliary police had already gathered, under the direction of West Monroe Chief of Police Jeff Caldwell.

Men piled out of cars and gathered in serious little groups rechecking guns and focusing flashlights. There was some nervousness displayed, for it was their first experience at night-shooting in the auxiliary police training course.

The firing began, with West Monroe first in the field. T. O. Bancroft, assistant coordinator, gave the signal, and G. C. McAuliffe scored a direct hit on the silhouette target 40 yards away.

Could It Be?

Then another West Monroe man stepped up to shoot, registering confidence which changed to profound surprise when his shot brought no ring proclaiming a hit from the metal disk behind the target.

His amazed "Did I miss?" was greeted with the first laughter of the evening, and tension melted away.

For the next hour and a half men stood with their flashlights supplementing the light from an almost-full moon and fired shot after shot from shotgun and pistol into the target.

Good-natured jibes were flung around during the firing.

"Say, don't you wish that were Hitler—he'd be a dead duck," was one fellow's happy thought.

The first Monroe man to fire missed the target, but a friend consoled him, "That man ducked, John—I seen him when he done it!"

But, "By Jove, I want you to go on kitchen police tomorrow," Chief Reitzell good-naturedly commented.

The riot squad was out in full force, guarding jealously its white-uniformed nurse.

Sheepishly, the man who missed the chicken barbecue said as the procession back to town began, "Shucks, I don't mind—this was worth it. Anyhow I called 'em and they're saving a plate for me."

Supplement Police

The auxiliary police unit was organized in Ouachita parish five months ago to supplement Twin Cities' police and sheriff departments during the war. Today membership numbers 115 plus 60 members of a river patrol unit.

They work in close cooperation with the authorized law enforcement officers in the parish and take their orders only from the sheriff and the chiefs of police, an advantage that Coordinator Fox emphasizes because "this way there is no conflict."

Applicants were selected from volunteers for civilian defense service upon a basis of availability and army classification because of the need for a non-shifting organization. Merchants and mechanics, bankers and bakers—men from all parts of the Twin Cities work shoulder to shoulder.

Among the qualifications for an auxiliary police were willingness to respond to a call in the event of an emergency at any time of the day or night, ownership of a firearm and the ability to handle it, submission to finger-printing and identification with the F. B. I., and ability to pass a physical examination.

Classroom Work

Once qualified, auxiliary police attended classes of instruction in fire and gas defense, first aid, physical training, self defense, along with regular training in marksmanship.

They are thoroughly familiar with all city ordinances pertaining to traffic regulations, for it is their duty to control traffic during blackouts and air-raids. Also in the line of duty they number escorting military traffic, evacuation of civilians, emergency relief, disasters, quelling of riots, insurrections or other civil disturbance, and protection of property.

Their equipment includes guns, flashlights, first aid kits, coverall uniforms and auxiliary police identification armbands (a red shield on a white triangle centered in a blue circle).

Also A Nurse

There are two companies, Company A in Monroe, consisting of four platoons of four squads each; and Company B of West Monroe, with three platoons consisting of two squads each. There is, in addition, the riot squad, with nine men and a nurse, which travels in a truck equipped with first aid equipment.

Because the division has been made so that all members of a squad of five men live comparatively near together, the auxiliary police can gather in a hurry. When the unexpected call went out Wednesday night, one West Monroe squad reported in less than three minutes and all but one had gathered in 12 minutes.

Now, after five months of training—training that they have attended faithfully, they are not only better marksmen as shown by the results of the night practice, but they fully realize the importance of their work. Coordinator Fox beams, "We're organized to the point that we can take over in any emergency."

TECH MAY HAVE SPECIAL STUDY

Classes For In-Service Teachers May Be Held At Time Arranged

RUSTON, La., July 25.—(Special)—Although extension and correspondence classes have been discontinued by Louisiana Tech, the college here will arrange to offer classes primarily for in-service teachers, if there is sufficient demand, on Saturdays or on other week-day nights, President Claybrook Cottingham has announced.

These extra courses will be handled on the basis of regularly scheduled class work and will be covered by the usual $10 registration fee, with no tuition charge to be made. A student may take as many as nine semester hours for the $10 fee, whereas formerly $9 was charged for each course offered by extension, it was pointed out by Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, registrar.

The Tech teachers will receive no extra pay for conducting these Saturday or evening classes but only teachers with light loads will be called upon to do this work, according to President Cottingham.

These classes will be taught on a plan similar to other courses except that they will meet for longer periods at a time, one day a week.

Teachers and others interested in taking these courses will register at the registrar's office, or leave their requests for such courses at that office.

FIRE ALARM FALSE

Fire trucks one, two and six were called out Saturday morning at 3:55 o'clock to Ware's drug store in the Alvis Hotel where a faulty refrigeration motor had filled the place with smoke. No fire resulted and no damage was done.

SUNDAY STATION CLOSING AUG. 2

Filling Station Law To Become Operative Then In Louisiana

A constitutional provision stating that all state laws shall go into effect on the 20th day after the legislature adjourns will keep the gasoline service station Sunday closing law from going into effect until August 2, Chris Stovall, president of the Bossier-Shreveport chapter of the Service Station Association of Louisiana, is quoted as stating.

The constitutional provision was overlooked when the law was drawn with an emergency clause to make it effective immediately after it had been signed by the governor. Under this interpretation the law would have become effective today.

The act, of which Representative Alvin B. Crais of New Orleans is the author, was approved by Governor Sam Jones on July 12 and under its emergency clause would take full force immediately. But under the constitution, it must wait the full 20 days or until August 2.

The act makes it unlawful to engage in the sale of "gasoline, motor oil or any motor fuel, or to conduct or to engage in any business pertaining to refueling, lubricating, greasing, washing, or repairing of any motor vehicle or any part thereof, including tire and battery work, between twelve midnight Saturday and twelve midnight Sunday."

To take care of emergencies the president of each parish police jury and the mayors of cities and towns or their agents are authorized to issue written permits to not more than five per cent of the stations in each of the respective parishes or municipalities to dispense these products during the closing period.

The act provides for emergency services for "births, deaths, serious sickness, and all governmental functions, and necessary supplies and services to common carrier vehicles by bus or truck which are duly authorized to operate by the interstate commerce commission and or the Louisiana public service commission, and necessary supplies and services to any commercial vehicle engaged in the transportation of perishables."

The four young men mentioned are: Charles David Bourke, 20, son of Mrs. Ida Bourke, who was so anxious to enlist that he forgot to get his mother's written consent, but a long-distance telephone call from McNemar soon remedied that situation, and which in an hour he had her telegraphic consent; Charles Clinton Cloy, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Horace Cloy; William Harmon Randall, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calvin Randall; and Edsel Girard Thurman, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rastus Lee Thurman. All four of these splendid young fellows were born and reared at Sicily Island, attended the same schools and churches, and have been lifelong pals and friends, and now that they had reached young manhood, they each decided that they wanted to continue their close companionship and enlist together in the same branch of the service.

At noon on Thursday, these four boys were back to see Sergeant McNemar, with their pre-enlistment papers completed, their releases from the draft board, and were ready to set out on the great adventure of their lives.

The sergeant said later that he knew the people of Sicily Island, who had seen these boys grow up into the peak of their splendid young manhood, are indeed proud of them, and that he feels that each of them will go a long way in the army.

In countless industrial plants American working men, with Natural Gas as an ally, are fighting and winning the battle of production.

Guns, planes, ships, munitions and other needed war materials are flowing from production lines in ever-increasing quantities. In the manufacture of all of these, Natural Gas plays a vital part, supplying the ideal fuel for generating power and heat.

These war industries must be kept going at top speed. Their requirements for Natural Gas are large, but whatever the demand, our entire organization will be devoted to meeting it.

GOOD GAS SERVICE More THAN JUST GAS

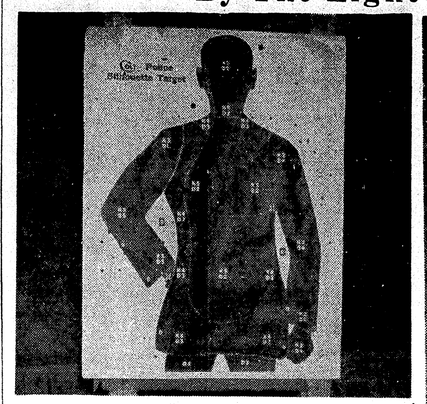
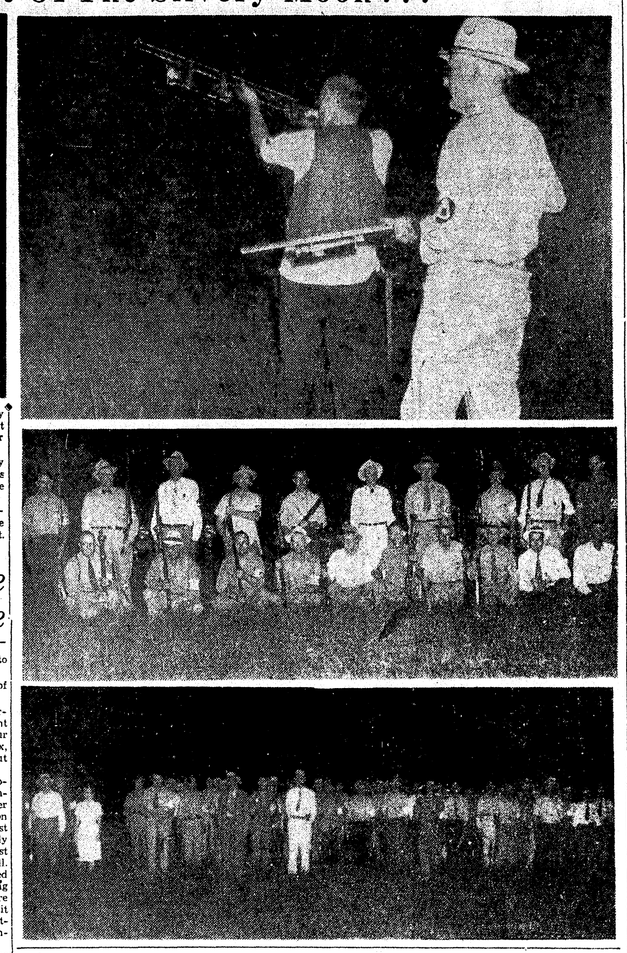
By The Light Of The Silvery Moon . . .





And, of course, with flashlights to supplement the moonlight, auxiliary police gathered at the police target range Wednesday for their first night shooting practice. The picture above shows the silhouette target just after the shooting began. Later on it was almost one big hole.

In the upper right corner, the man hefting that big gun is Auxiliary Police Sergeant C. L. Pohl who scored a direct hit on the target 40 yards away. In the foreground is W. B. Mask, Sr. On both the guns may be seen the flashlights that all the men had attached to their guns.

In the center picture are the West Monroe auxiliary police who answered the surprise call for target practice and in the bottom picture are the Monroe auxiliary police with part of the riot squad visible at the left.

Auxiliary Police Do Some Moonlight Target Practice

Sixty Members Respond To First Surprise Call During Course

By Monica Lilles

With slow church music from a nearby building forming a musical background, 60 Monroe auxiliary police, summoned to the near-dusk of the Central Grammar school grounds by a surprise call a few minutes earlier, inspected guns and flashlights, fastened on armbands and speculated as to the reason for their gathering.

"Hey, where're we going?" buzzed through the curious crowd.

Someone caught sight of the reporter and photographer and mourned, "We're gonna have our pictures taken for the paper—and me on my way to a chicken barbecue!"

Then, "Fall in!" barked Chief of Police Frank Reitzell.

"You're going out to the police target range to do your first flashlight shooting," he explained. "Get in your cars and follow Mr. Fox (John Fox, coordinator of the auxiliary police) out to the range."

Ten minutes later the orderly procession was being directed into asymmetrical football-game-parking-order by young Boy Scout Larry Fox on the shooting range, where 22 West Monroe auxiliary police had already gathered, under the direction of West Monroe Chief of Police Jeff Caldwell.

Men piled out of cars and gathered in serious little groups rechecking guns and focusing flashlights. There was some nervousness displayed, for it was their first experience at night-shooting in the auxiliary police training course.

The firing began, with West Monroe first in the field. T. O. Bancroft, assistant coordinator, gave the signal, and G. C. McAuliffe scored a direct hit on the silhouette target 40 yards away.

Could It Be?

Then another West Monroe man stepped up to shoot, registering confidence which changed to profound surprise when his shot brought no ring proclaiming a hit from the metal disk behind the target.

His amazed "Did I miss?" was greeted with the first laughter of the evening, and tension melted away.

For the next hour and a half men stood with their flashlights supplementing the light from an almost-full moon and fired shot after shot from shotgun and pistol into the target.

Good-natured jibes were flung around during the firing.

"Say, don't you wish that were Hitler—he'd be a dead duck," was one fellow's happy thought.

The first Monroe man to fire missed the target, but a friend consoled him. "That man ducked, John—I seen him when he done it!"

But, "By Jove, I want you to go on kitchen police tomorrow," Chief Reitzell good-naturedly commented.

The riot squad was out in full force, guarding jealously its white-uniformed nurse.

Sheepishly, the man who missed the chicken barbecue said as the procession back to town began, "Shucks, I don't mind—this was worth it. Anyhow I called 'em and they're saving a plate for me."

Supplement Police

The auxiliary police unit was organized in Ouachita parish five months ago to supplement Twin Cities' police and sheriff departments during the war. Today membership numbers 115 plus 60 members of a river patrol unit.

They work in close cooperation with the authorized law enforcement officers in the parish and take their orders only from the sheriff and the chiefs of police, an advantage that Coordinator Fox emphasizes because "this way there is no conflict."

Applicants were selected from volunteers for civilian defense service upon a basis of availability and army classification because of the need for a non-shifting organization. Merchants and mechanics, bankers and bakers —men from all parts of the Twin Cities work shoulder to shoulder.

Among the qualifications for an auxiliary police were willingness to respond to a call in the event of an emergency at any time of the day or night, ownership of a firearm and the ability to handle it, submission to finger-printing and identification with the F. B. I., and ability to pass a physical examination.

Classroom Work

Once qualified, auxiliary police attended classes of instruction in fire and gas defense, first aid, physical training, self defense, along with regular training in marksmanship.

They are thoroughly familiar with all city ordinances pertaining to traffic regulations, for it is their duty to control traffic during blackouts and air-raids. Also in the line of duty they number escorting military traffic, evacuation of civilians, emergency relief, dinsters, quailing of riots, insurrection or other civil disturbance, and protection of property.

Their equipment includes guns, flashlights, first aid kits, coverall uniforms and auxiliary police identification armbands (a red shield on a white triangle centered in a blue circle).

Also A Nurse

There are two companies, Company A in Monroe, consisting of four platoons of four squads each; and Company B of West Monroe, with three platoons consisting of two squads each. There is, in addition, the riot squad, with nine men and a nurse, which travels in a truck equipped with first aid equipment.

Because the division has been made so that all members of a squad of five men live comparatively near together, the auxiliary police can gather in a hurry. When the unexpected call went out Wednesday night, one West Monroe squad reported in less than three minutes and all but one had gathered in 12 minutes.

Now, after five months of training —training that they have attended faithfully, they are not only better marksmen as shown by the results of the night practice, but they fully realize the importance of their work. Coordinator Fox beams, "We're organized to the point that we can take over in any emergency."

TECH MAY HAVE SPECIAL STUDY

Classes For In-Service Teachers May Be Held At Time Arranged

RUSTON, La., July 25.—(Special)—Although extension and correspondence classes have been discontinued by Louisiana Tech, the college here will arrange to offer classes primarily for in-service teachers, if there is sufficient demand, on Saturdays or on other week-day nights, President Claybrook Cottingham has announced.

These extra courses will be handled on the basis of regularly scheduled class work and will be covered by the usual $10 registration fee, with no tuition charge to be made. A student may take as many as nine semester hours for the $10 fee, whereas formerly $9 was charged for each course offered by extension, it was pointed out by Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, registrar.

The Tech teachers will receive no extra pay for conducting these Saturday or evening classes but only teachers with light loads will be called upon to do this work, according to President Cottingham.

These classes will be taught on a plan similar to other courses except that they will meet for longer periods at a time one day a week.

Teachers and others interested in taking these courses will register at the registrar's office, or leave their requests for such courses at that office.

FIRE ALARM FALSE

Fire trucks one, two and six were called out Saturday morning at 3:30 o'clock to Ware's drug store in the Alvis Hotel where a faulty refrigeration motor had filled the place with smoke. No fire resulted and no damage was done.

SUNDAY STATION CLOSING AUG. 2

Filling Station Law To Become Operative Then In Louisiana

A constitutional provision stating that all state laws shall go into effect on the 30th day after the legislature adjourns will keep the gasoline service station Sunday closing law from going into effect until August 2, Chris Stovall, president of the Bossier-Shreveport chapter of the Service Station Association of Louisiana, is quoted as stating.

The constitutional provision was overlooked when the law was drawn with an emergency clause to make it effective immediately after it had been signed by the governor. Under this interpretation the law would have become effective today.

The act, of which Representative Alvin B. Crais of New Orleans is the author, was approved by Governor Sam Jones on July 12 and under its emergency clause would take full force immediately. But under the constitution, it must wait the full 30 days or until August 2.

The act makes it unlawful to engage in the sale of "gasoline, motor oil or any motor fuel, or to conduct or to engage in any business pertaining to refueling, lubricating, greasing, washing, or repairing of any motor vehicle or any part thereof, including tire and battery work, between twelve midnight Saturday and twelve midnight Sunday."

To take care of emergencies the president of each parish police jury and the mayors of cities and towns or their agents are authorized to issue written permits to not more than five per cent of the stations in each of the respective parishes or municipalities to dispense these products during the closing period.

The act provides for emergency services for "births, deaths, serious sickness and all governmental functions, and necessary supplies and services to common carrier vehicles by bus or truck which are duly authorized to operate by the interstate commerce commission and or the Louisiana public service commission, and necessary supplies and services to any commercial vehicle engaged in the transportation of perishables."

"ALL RIGHT," AGREED BAMBI, KICKING UP HIS HEELS IN HIGH SPIRITS. "YOU BET I'LL RUN FAST."

"WHAT'S THE MATTER?" BAMBI TAUNTED. "DO YOU GIVE UP?"

"STOP!" CRIED THUMPER. "THAT'S THE MEADOW! WE'RE NOT ALLOWED TO GO OUT THERE UNLESS MAMA..."

BUT BAMBI DID NOT EVEN HEAR. HE WAS FASCINATED BY THE GREAT NEW WORLD HE HAD DISCOVERED. IN THE FOREST THERE WERE ONLY LITTLE PATCHES OF SUNLIGHT ...BUT OUT HERE IT SHONE EVERYWHERE! BAMBI HAD NEVER EVEN DREAMED OF SUCH A BEAUTIFUL PLACE! ENCHANTED, HE DRANK IN DEEP BREATHS...

...THEN, SUDDENLY, HIS MOTHER WAS AT HIS SIDE!

"BAMBI!" HER TONE FRIGHTENED HIM. "NEVER, NEVER COME HERE ALONE! QUICK! GET BACK IN THE BUSHES AND I'LL TELL YOU WHY!"

THE GUMPS

BUT EVEN IF COOKY'S REVOLVER WAS FOUND WITH ONE BULLET DISCHARGED, D-DOES THAT PROVE IT WAS COOKY WHO ACTUALLY DID THE SHOOTING?

IT'S VERY STRONG CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE, CHESTER-

GUS EDSON

BUT COULDN'T SOMEONE ELSE HAVE STOLEN THE GUN AND USED IT TO THROW SUSPICION ON COOKY?

OH, YES- THE POLICE ARE WORKING ON THAT THEORY, TOO- EVERYONE HERE IS UNDER SUSPICION-

WHEN SILK WAS RINGMASTER OF THE CIRCUS, HE MADE MANY ENEMIES- WHY, EVEN THE ANIMALS SEEMED TO HATE HIM-

COOKY IS SUCH A SWELL FELLOW- IF ONLY WE COULD DO SOMETHING TO HELP HIM!

WE'VE GOT TO DO SOMETHING!

HM- THAT BULLET-HOLE IS PRETTY HIGH! LOOKS LIKE IT WAS FIRED BY A VERY TALL MAN- COOKY IS JUST MEDIUM HEIGHT-

GOSH! IT COULD HAVE BEEN JACK, THE GIANT- EXCEPT HE WAS AWAY THE NIGHT OF THE SHOOTING- BUT WHY A TALL MAN?

TALLEST MAN IN THE WORLD!

HE COULD EVEN HAVE BEEN A MIDGET! HE COULD HAVE CLIMBED TO THE LOWER BRANCH OF THAT TREE- THE GUN WAS FOUND UNDER IT!

BY GOLLY, CHESTER! THERE'S A LOT IN WHAT YOU SAY- BUT IT ONLY CONFUSES THE SOLUTION- IT DOESN'T HELP TO SOLVE IT- IF ONLY THERE WERE FINGERPRINTS ON THE GUN-

COUSIN JUNIPER!

LOOK! I JUST FOUND THIS STUCK ON THAT BRANCH!

CHESTER! WHAT A DETECTIVE YOU'D MAKE! THIS LOOKS LIKE AN IMPORTANT CLUE!

THE KILLER SHOT SILK FROM THIS TREE- AND WORE SOMETHING RED THAT WAS TORN IN CLIMBING!!

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN A PAIR OF WOOLEN GLOVES- WHICH ACCOUNTS FOR NO FINGER-PRINTS ON THE GUN-

FIRE! FIRE!! FIRE!!!

FIRE!

OH, GOOD GRIEF!

OUTSIDE, EVER'BODY! OUTSIDE!!

ZZZZ

OW!

HELLO, FIRE DEPARTMENT? WELL, LISTEN, THERE'S A LITTLE BOY TRAPPED ON THE FIRST FLOOR OF 1323 GOATSBY AND—

KAYO, OPEN THAT DOOR!

YAS, I SAID THE FIRST FLOOR! AND IF YOU CAN'T GET HERE IN TWO MINUTES, SEND A SQUAD OF COPS AND A AMBULANCE.

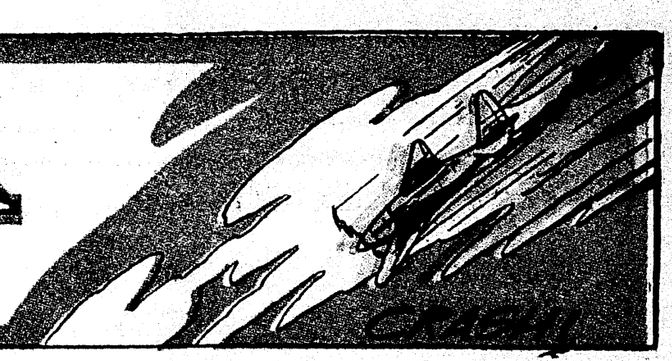
Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS



SOMEONE IN THE CRIPPLED PLANE AHEAD WAS SIGNALING FRANTICALLY.

"THEY WANT TO TELL US SOMETHING. OVERTAKE THEM," TARZAN URGED. THEN SUDDENLY THE MYSTERY MACHINE—

—WABBLED AND FELL INTO A SCREAMING SPIN, EXPOSING THE INSIGNIA ON ITS WINGS.

"ROYAL AIR FORCE!" OLGA EXCLAIMED; "I'M AFRAID IT'S ALL OVER WITH THEM."

TARZAN SCRAMBLED BACK AND DONNED A PARACHUTE AS HE CALLED TO THE GIRL.

"YOU CAN EASILY REACH SAFETY, BUT THOSE OTHERS—THEY MAY NEED ME—IF THEY LIVE." A MOMENT LATER—

—HE WAS PLUMMETING DOWN TO EARTH. THEN THE PARACHUTE OPENED, AND LOWERED HIM THROUGH THE CLOUDS.

SOON AFTER, THE PLANE CRASHED IN FLAMES ON A STRANGE ISLAND. TARZAN LANDED NEARBY AND HURRIED TO THE WRECK.

THERE HE FOUND A LONE SURVIVOR, WHO WAS ASTONISHED TO HEAR THE APE-MAN ADDRESS HIM IN ENGLISH.

"I'M WING COMMANDER JONATHAN," HE SAID; "AND I MUST REACH HEADQUARTERS. IT'S VITAL. WILL YOU HELP ME?" "THIS COUNTRY IS STRANGE TO ME," TARZAN ANSWERED, "BUT—" AT THAT INSTANT A VOICE BOOMED OUT.

HOGARTH

"IT'S NOT LIKELY EITHER OF YOU WILL LEAVE THIS ISLAND ALIVE."

GERMANS GO DEEPER INTO CAUCASUS

Situation In Australia More Critical

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

To The Editor.
Dear Sir:
I would like to call your attention to something.

Our American standard daily press, meaning the non-Communist daily papers, is the most liberal in the world and most of these papers maintain their own individual little Hyde Park corners in which persons who wish to sound off against their editorial policies are given room to do so. That is fine, but—

In view of the fact that you do not resort to untruth in your editorials and do not knowingly permit your reporters or commentators to publish falsehoods, does your liberalism require and do ethics permit you to grant the right of falsehood or misrepresentation to those who express themselves in the Vox Pop?

I am thinking in particular of such terms as labor, pro-labor, anti-labor and labor-baiting.

A letter will say that labor wants this or that or labor is doing so and so and you let it go, when the fact is that labor includes practically all the adult males and a large proportion of the adult females in the United States, of whom the unions embrace less than one-fifth.

This is a very small minority of labor and a large proportion of that membership is involuntary or captive, as the unions admit in demanding the closed shop and the check-off. So if we say, for a figure, that the unions represent only one-tenth of labor in our country we are just about right. Yet the term labor is applied to this minority, including the captive element, and you regularly permit this misrepresentation to be made and not only in your Vox Pop but often in the news columns as well. This causes confusion and the pioneers and the union politicians, very smart, sound that false note all the time.

This naturally leads to consideration of the abuse of the term pro-labor when is applied often to men and women who are anti-labor in spirit but couldn't speak for labor as a whole even if they were pro-labor because there is no organized element in the country large enough to deserve the name. Labor as a whole, has no qualified spokesman and even the unions are at war among them-

PROPOSES TO END PERSONAL EXEMPTIONS

Seidman Suggests 10 Per Cent Tax On All Net Income

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—A representative of the New York board of trade proposed to the Senate finance committee today that it amend the $6,271,000,000 tax bill by removing personal income tax exemptions so as to raise an additional $3,000,000,000 revenue.

Suggesting a sales tax as an alternative, M. L. Seidman, chairman of the New York board's taxation committee urged the imposition of a flat 10 per cent war tax on all net income now free of federal levies because of personal exemptions or credits for dependents.

A survey showed the committee to be widely divided on the sales tax. Calling the House bill, estimated to increase revenues by more than six billions, "totally inadequate," the witness said the measure ought to be broadened sufficiently to reach upwards of 30,000,000 persons instead of the 7,000,000 he said now paid federal tax.

Seidman contended that a House-approved proposal for the advance collection of individual income taxes by 5 per cent deductions at the source on pay checks, interest and dividends would "impose a terrific burden upon business already overwhelmed by governmental requirements." Business "ems would be charged with the collections from payrolls."

Recommending several changes in corporation taxes, the witness urged that combined normal and surtax rates on corporations be reduced from the House bill's figure of 45 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent if the 90 per cent excess profits tax were retained.

"I would rather see a 100 per cent excess profits tax with a 25 per cent post-war credit than a 90 per cent tax

MILLIONTH SERVICE MAN BUYING BONDS

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—Private Walter T. Pearson, Lockport, Ill., now stationed at Camp Wolters, Tex., today became the one millionth person connected with the war department to set aside a portion of his pay for the purchase of war bonds.

The war department said that Pearson, inducted June 3, 1942, had signed an agreement to purchase one bond each month for $18.75—42.5 per cent of his $50 monthly pay.

The 999,999th subscriber under the department's pay reservation plan was Lyle C. Fordyce, Brooklyn, N. Y., a civilian employe, and form No. 1,000,001 was signed by an army nurse, First Lieutenant Eileen W. Brady, stationed at San Francisco.

ALLIED JUNGLE FIGHTERS CLASH WITH JAPANESE

Worm Way Across Papuan Peninsula To Battle With Nipponese

BRITISH WARN INDIA

Australian Officials Believe Enemy Agents Are Active

(By Associated Press)

Advices from the insular battlefront of the Southwest Pacific, facing Australia, pictured that theater today as ominously astir in an upsurge of air activity over the week-end and land action between the allies and the Japanese in New Guinea.

A simmering crisis in India evoked a sharp British warning to Mohandas K. Gandhi over his projected civil disobedience campaign.

In addition to the battle of China, the fog-bound aerial sparring of the United States against the Japanese lodgements in the Aleutian Islands and the long-standing possibility of a Japanese move from Burma against India or from Manchukuo against Russia, the Australian theater now is reassuming a more critical aspect.

Jungle warriors of the allies, evidently patrols from the Port Moresby outpost on New Guinea's south coast, wormed their way across most of the formidable Papuan Peninsula and over the week-end skirmished with Japanese at Awala, about 25 miles inland from Buna.

A small Japanese invasion force had been landed under air attack near Buna last Wednesday. General MacArthur's headquarters also reported a minor clash between allied outpost forces and Japanese recently at Mubo, near Salamaua, 150 miles northwest of Buna, where 50 of the enemy died in a patrol attack on the allied-held village.

This clash followed upon an allied Commando swoop early this month on Salamaua in which a like number of the foe were killed.

The allied air force continued to pound Japanese troops which got ashore in the Buna area, at Gona Mission and also raided Kieta on Bougainville Island, in the Solomons, and Buka and Sohana Islands, in the Buka passage, to the north.

Japanese airmen, over the week-end,

Heavy Assault On Hamburg Made By British Bombers

Believed Biggest Raid Made On Germany Since Last Month

LONDON, July 27.—(AP)—The big port of Hamburg, Germany's second largest city and greatest submarine building center, was hit hard last night by the Royal air force in its heaviest assault on the Reich since the 1,000-plane bombing of Bremen late last month.

Without disclosing the number of bombers participating in the attack—the sixth on Hamburg this year and the 91st since the war began—a communique announced that 29 of the raiders failed to return.

(On the basis of losses of slightly under 5 per cent, which the British have reported as the cost of similar recent heavy raids, this would suggest a striking force of at least 600 planes.)

The communique said a "very strong force" attacked the city of 1,700,000 population, whose Blohm and Voss shipyards alone are said to have a capacity to build 25 U-boats at a time, and whose war industries, working day and night, include oil refineries, explosives works and a big seaplane factory.

It was the fourth attack on Germany in six nights and followed a series of raids on Duisburg.

The raiders were favored by good weather and first reports indicated the assault was highly successful.

Hamburg—the largest seaport on the European continent and the second biggest city in Germany—had been attacked five times previously this year, the last occasion being the night of May 3. Its shipbuilding yards produce more submarines than any other center in Germany.

The German radio, which said the attack had caused some damage to residences and some civilian casualties, reported 18 British planes were shot down.

Later the Germans raised this figure to 53.

In addition to raiding Hamburg, British planes bombed airdromes in the Low Countries and attacked Nazi shipping off the Frisian islands, the air ministry reported.

Last night's raid carried to a climax a week end of intense aerial activity, which was marked by the first appearance of United States army fighter pilots in action over the European continent.

A special communique issued by Major General Carl Spaatz, commander of United States army air forces in the European theater, disclosed that seven American fliers accompanied R. A. F. fighter squadrons in a series of daylight sweeps over northern France yesterday, during which nine of Germany's vaunted new Focke-Wulfe 109 fighters were shot out of the skies.

The Allies lost three planes, including one of those piloted by the Americans.

Five of the German planes were reported shot down by a crack Polish squadron, which has been flying for some time with the R. A. F. The Americans were not credited officially with shooting down any of the Nazis.

Spaatz' communique was the second on United States air force operations in Europe. The first disclosed that United States army bomber pilots had made their debut in action in this theater by participating in raids on German-occupied territory July 4.

While the Allied fighters were busy over occupied territory, single British bombers made daylight attacks on

INCOME TAXES ON $5,000,000 MIGHT REACH $5,115,566

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—The senate finance committee was told today that anybody who was "dumb enough" to have a $5,000,000 taxable income in these times "would not be smart enough to come in out of the rain."

M. L. Seidman, chairman of the taxation committee of the New York board of trade, testified that any person who had that amount of income in one year would be taxed $4,374,616 under terms of the pending $6,271,000,000 revenue bill.

If this taxpayer happened to live in California, Seidman said, he would be subject to $749,950 state tax, making total levies of $5,115,566.

"Anyone who is dumb enough to have a $5,000,000 taxable income would not be smart enough to come in out of the rain," Seidman declared, adding that if the citizen made a mere $1,000,000 taxable income "he would be permitted to keep $4,000 instead of winding up $115,566 behind the eight-ball."

NEWSMAN TELLS OF TORTURE AT HANDS OF JAPS

Reports Being Slapped, Kicked And Put In Solitary Confinement

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—The New York Times reported today in a Lourenco Marques dispatch from Otto D. Tolischus, its former Tokyo correspondent, that seven American newspapermen and one Canadian newspaper woman were arrested by the Japanese in Tokyo and Yokohama and held for six months in solitary confinement and conditions of severest hardship.

Tolischus said they were charged with espionage and with violating Japan's national defense act by sending out political, economic and diplomatic news.

"During examinations three American newspapermen, Walter R. Wills, publisher of the Japan Newsweek and representative of the Columbia Broadcasting system; Jasper N. Bellinger, an employe of the Japan Times Advertiser, a Canadian; and I. and Miss Phyllis Argall, correspondent of the News Chronicle of London, were subjected to physical torture," Tolischus reported.

"Miss Argall was tied up and handcuffed when she was arrested and was repeatedly slapped until her face was cut," the dispatch to the Times said. "Mr. Wills was slapped during the whole examination period, lasting more than three months. He was forced to squat for hours in Japanese fashion, with the result that he is still suffering an injury to his left knee.

"Mr. Bellinger was slapped kicked on the shins and forced to stand for hours with his hands above his head.

"I likewise was accused of espionage and secret intelligence work for the

MANY OPPOSE SESSION ONLY FOR HOSPITAL

Don't Want Legislature To Meet Unless Other Institutions Aided

VETO IS CHALLENGED

Suit Seeks To Force Payments For New Orleans Institution

BATON ROUGE, La., July 27.—(AP)—Strong opposition appeared today to the calling of a special session of the Louisiana Legislature to consider revenues to keep the New Orleans Charity Hospital open unless such a plan would include funds for additional old-age pensions, public schools and police juries.

Sixteen senators asked Governor Sam H. Jones not to call a special session until sufficient commitments for revenue measures have been obtained to carry out such a program.

The governor announced at the same time that the $600,000 loan to operate the hospital until it can be evacuated and closed had been approved.

Meanwhile, Governor Jones' veto of the Charity Hospital appropriation was challenged in court with a preliminary hearing on a suit filed by Alfred D. Danziger set for 10 a.m. Friday by District Judge James D. Womack.

The suit, filed by Danziger by Leander Perez, George M. Wallace and Wade O. Martin, Jr., alleges that the governor's veto of the $8,100,000 biennial appropriation to the institution is illegal, null and void because it impairs the obligation of the state and violates the right of contract.

In New Orleans today a final meeting of state and city representatives was scheduled in connection with a citizens' committee study of state finances. A report is expected in a few days.

Governor Jones announced appointment of 15 members of the Legislature to serve on the statewide committee in connection with the finance study.

Speaker of the House Norman Bauer of Tammany and Representative Bonnie V. Baker, Baton Rouge, chairman of the appropriations committee and Representative H. H. Huckabay of Caddo, chairman of the ways and means committee, protested that

TEXAS TO GET SENATE RUNOFF

Election Bureau Says O'Daniel Short Of Necessary Majority

DALLAS, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—A prediction that Senator W. Lee O'Daniel and former Governor James V. Allred were certain to face each other in a runoff prunary for nomination for United States senator on the Democratic ticket was made today by the Texas election bureau, which is responsible for gathering unofficial returns in the state.

With 882,858 votes tabulated at 9 a.m., the bureau reported O'Daniel's per cent at 48.32, adding that this figure was not likely to rise past 49 per cent.

The bureau's analysis indicated approximately 975,000 votes would be counted, with O'Daniel getting 475,000, or 12,500 short of a majority.

The latest count gave O'Daniel 426,-

INLAND STEEL WILL COMPLY WITH RULING

Accepts War Labor Board's Edict Although Convinced It's Wrong

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP)—Inland Steel Company, the last of the four companies of the "little steel" industry to accept the recent war labor board decision requiring them to institute union security and grant pay increases, says it was "compelled to do a thing which it believes to be wrong."

Inland notified the WLB yesterday that it would comply with the decision, stating it "had no alternative" and that acceptance was compelled by "threat of confiscation" by the WLB and by a threatened strike of the C. I. O. United Steelworkers of America.

"In the name of patriotism," the company told the board, "Inland is compelled to do a thing which it believes to be wrong, because the alternative would interfere with war production."

The company accepted without comment the order granting workers a wage increase of 44 cents a day to a minimum of 78 cents an hour. However, it told the WLB that it reserved the right of appeal on the union security issue, which provides for a maintenance of union contract clause

FAR SHORT OF POSSIBILITIES FOR ECONOMIES

Senator Byrd Says Opportunities So Far 'Barely Scratched'

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—Despite appropriation slashes totaling $1,313,983,208 in "non-essential" expenditures by the present Congress, a joint Senate-House committee declared last night that "the possibilities for economies have been no more than scratched."

A report released by Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, chairman of the committee, said cash savings on 1942 appropriations amounted to $1,187,983,208 and loan authorizations were cut by $150,000,000.

"The budget bureau has worked diligently in reducing non-essential expenditures and in paring down budget recommendations," the report of the committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures said.

A number of the federal agencies involved cooperated in paring expenses, the report said.

Abolition of the CCC produced a saving of $238,960,000, the committee reported. Other major reductions from last year's figures included $340,000,000 off the Work Projects administration allotment, $185,731,208 from the agriculture department appropriation, $50,200,000 from federal highway projects and $33,148,000 from non-defense construction.

"In addition to the saving specifically indicated," the report said, "other substantial sums will be saved during the 1943 fiscal year, such as those resulting from the 10 per cent reduction in travel appropriations made in some of the supply bills."

However, the Congress voted $46,358,000 more than last year for river and harbor and flood control improvement, whereas the committee had recommended saving $27,835,000 by deferring such work.

STEPHENS TO OPPOSE ST. LAWRENCE PACT

NEW ORLEANS, July 27.—(AP)—E. A. Stephens, candidate for the United States senate in the September 8 Democratic primary, today advised A. E. Pradillo, secretary of the citywide committee in opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway treaty that he would "actively oppose" it's ratification.

"My decision is—the St. Lawrence seaway treaty would be harmful to the state of Louisiana," Stephens' letter to Pradillo stated. "I therefore do not hesitate to pledge to you that I shall oppose actively the ratification of this treaty if I am elected to the United States senate."

RUSSIANS SAY ENEMY HALTED IN ONE SECTOR

U. S. Airmen In Preparatory Participation In Actual Combat

DOWN NAZI PLANES

Nine Focke-Wulf, One American And Two British Craft Lost

By Clyde A. Farnsworth
(Associated Press War Editor)

Berlin announced today a 20-mile penetration of the Caucasus, south of Rostov on the Don, on the main rail route into Russia's greatest oil fields, but farther up the Don, in the Tsimlyansk area where the invaders had forced at least two crossings, the Germans had been halted, Moscow said.

South of Rostov, said the German high command, German troops stormed into Bataisk after a day of fighting in which a terrific aerial assault broke a path for them.

The Germans, without details, said that farther east along the Don mechanized detachments continued their southward drive. It was there the Russians said they had been checked in the Tsimlyansk area.

To the northeast German and Rumanian infantry divisions, the German communique said, were threatening Stalingrad on a broad front, having reached a Don bend area about 50 miles from their goal. Stalingrad, industrial capital of the lower Volga, lies near an elbow of that river, within 50 miles of the Don bend.

"Northwest of Kalatsch," said the Berlin communique, "tank detachments and mechanized troops are in violent battle with Soviet tank and infantry forces which are trying desperately to hold hilly ground west of the (Don) river."

The location of "Kalatsch" suggested that the Germans meant Kachalino, just east of the Don, some 30 miles northwest of Stalingrad. "Kalatsch" does not appear on non-German maps.

The Germans added that violent air assaults spanned the Don, directed at Volga river and railway communications.

A vast area of steppe land, within the big bend of the Don, was overhung by the smoke of battle through which the German planes and the Red air force, using numbers of United States bombers and fighters, plunged their bomb loads.

In other sectors of the world conflict, apart from the dominant Russian front, the R. A. F. offensive against Germany had regained momentum, marked by further preparatory participation of United States army airmen in actual combat and a powerful overnight assault on Hamburg, while the battle of Egypt had shifted almost wholly to the air.

A heavy R. A. F. bomber force, following up a joint British-American bombardment of Saturday night, plastered the axis Libyan supply port of Tobruk again last night, hitting an enemy ship. Long-range R. A. F. fighters attacked barges off Sidi Barrani, axis-held port in Egypt.

German and Italian troops on the El Alamein line were digging in after last week's minor rectification of positions in favor of the British army of the Nile. Ground action consisted largely of skirmishing and the Italians claimed the British lost some prisoners.

The battle of Russia had reached its gravest stage thus far in 1942.

Berlin claimed that the strongly fortified town of Bataisk had been captured by forces which engulfed Rostov last week and later spanned the

OFFICERS PUZZLED BY WEIRD SUICIDE

RIVERSIDE, Calif., July 27.—(AP)—The weird suicide of 57-year-old Frank Kritzer, cavern hermit, who blew himself to bits with a 200-pound dynamite blast on the San Bernardino desert rather than submit to arrest, puzzled officers who were still seeking a motive today.

Undersheriff Steve Lynch said Kritzer was being questioned last Friday about the disappearance over a 6-month period of explosives and gasoline in several desert communities when he told three deputies they would not take him from his underground home alive. Kritzer thereupon connected two wires to a plunger, which set off the dynamite.

The blast killed Kritzer and injured Fred Platt, Harold Simpson and C. F. McCracken, started a fire that burned for hours, but revealed a hidden cache of firearms and ammunition and 179 pounds of dynamite.

Kritzer holed up in his cavern much in the fashion of a gopher. His cave had the 27,000-ton Giant Rock for a roof, and the living quarters, 15 by 20 feet, were hewn out of solid rock.

Friends said Kritzer was an escapist from the tension of modern urban life, loved the desert and had several intimates in the Hollywood movie set who flew to his desert retreat occasionally to share his solitude. They said they were unaware he had so much dynamite and could not understand why he was storing ammunition in large quantities.

Nipponese Face-Saving Effort Backfires

Japanese Paint U. S. Colors On Plane, Claim It Shot Down

(By Associated Press)

Accounts of a Japanese face-saving effort that backfired, of a vast web of Oriental intrigue with which Japan prepared for her conquests and of bitter suffering of American and other nationals who fell into Japanese hands were given over the week-end by Associated Press correspondents newly freed from Japanese detention.

Their dispatches came from Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, where the exchange of some 1,100 citizens of the United States and other American nations for a similar number of Japanese and Thai nationals has just taken place. The liner Gripsholm, now bearing the Americans—diplomats, newspapermen, missionaries and others—is to sail for New York tomorrow.

The face-saving attempt which flopped was related by Max Hill, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo when war came.

After first trumpeting to the world that nine of the American bombers which raided Tokyo April 18 were knocked down, the Japanese reduced their claims to one and put the "wreckage" on display in Tokyo to prove it. But Japanese who came to gape smelled paint and, sure enough, the red, white and blue of the United States air force which had been freshly daubed on still was wet.

Hill told of long weeks he spent in solitary confinement in freezing weather, bereft of his shoes and with scant food; of the taunt of a sullen guard: "American! This is Japan!"

Relman Morin, Associated Press chief of bureau in Tokyo from 1937 to 1940 who traveled through southeast Asia on a pre-war assignment, told of the workings of Japanese-Thai intrigue and fifth column activities which laid the groundwork for Japan's quick successes in Malaya and Burma.

While Japan and Thailand were pretending mutual hostility, he said Thailand actually was a party to Japan's plans to use transport fleets moving into the Gulf of Siam as early as August and September last year.

Morin said the Japanese intelligence service learned of British military dispositions in Malaya down to the last detail, and had special landing forces practicing on the French Indo-China coast long before the December 7 attack. Then traitors in Malaya led the invaders through the jungles, forcing the British to retire continually to prevent severance of their communications. In Burma, he said, it was the same story.

From Edbin Koons, Presbyterian missionary who was imprisoned in Korea, Morin obtained the story of how the Japanese administered the "water cure" to the clergyman.

"They tried it once and I fainted," Koons, who has a chronic heart condition, told Morin.

"A few days later, beating my back and soles of my feet with rubber hose, they said I needed more water, but at the last minute they decided otherwise.

Bitter Suffering Of Americans And Other Nationals Described

"Well, sir, just to show them I wasn't scared I said I really was thirsty after so much talking and asked for a small drink!"

A picture of the plight of some 2,000 Americans left in Japanese-occupied China was presented by J. D. White, former Associated Press correspondent at Peiping who was in Shanghai when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor.

In Shanghai, where there are 1,500 Americans, White said that most of them were well and provided with funds when their personal resources became exhausted but that it was feared conditions would soon deteriorate.

He said the American association took over civil affairs and began functioning under the chairmanship
